SECOND DAY OF BIG FAIR AT THE MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM

Several Additional Exhibits Brought in From Country Towns
This Forenoon—Two-Day Exhibition Will Close This Evening

All roads led once more to Memorial Auditorium today, the second and last day of the wonderful exhibition of farm and garden products conducted under the auspices of Middlesex North Agricultural Society members and their many visiting friends from many different communities in the vicinity of Lowell.

Yesterday's rain storm did not affect the initial attendance at the opening of the 1924 exhibition, and today with sunshine returning, the active committees handling the fair and exposition of nature's finest products of the soil, were happily preparing to entertain a record-breaking crowd.

The Auditorium was opened at ten o'clock this morning. Several additional exhibits were brought in from country towns before noon, adding to the magnificence and size of the exhibition. Every fair table was crowded with exhibits. The school children's offerings were wonderful to behold, and a complete list of the offerings from the youthful gardeners follows at the end of this article today.

The two-day exhibition closes late tonight. There will be an entertainment program in the evening, with music by an orchestra and singing by the Honey Boy quartet of this city. This afternoon, from 4 to 5, moving pictures will be given in Liberty hall, and

The airmen appeared over Shanhaikwan, mobilization point for the armies of Gen. Wu Pei-Fu, military head of the Peking government, and started dropping bombs on the city at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

Reports received from Shanhaikwan did not tell of the damage done by the bombers, but a raid from the air could be expected to damage the defending armies.

Fred Peabody Routs Bandits With a Milk Bottle After Receiving Bullet in Lung

Fred H. Peabody, milk dealer, was shot and seriously wounded early this morning in repulsing two hold-up men who entered his barn shortly after 4 o'clock and, at the point of a revolver, demanded his bankroll. With a bullet wound that punctured his lung and grazed his heart the milkman turned upon the pair with an empty milk bottle as his only weapon and chased them fully 300 yards before exhaustion compelled him to quit. The gunmen made their getaway in a light auto truck.

Peabody was at work in his barn at Stevens street and Bell avenue when the attack was staged. His place is but a few blocks from the home of Robert C. Potter at 527 Stevens street, burglarized earlier in morning.

Dr. Archibald W. Gardner probed for the bullet at Corporation hospital this morning and extracted it from in back of the suffering man's right kidney. The bullet, of 32 calibre, entered on the left side of the chest, punctured a lung and after grazing the man's heart struck the spinal column, being deflected to the position where it was found. Fired at close range the bullet made an ugly wound.

Dr. Gardner stated that while Mr. Peabody is a rugged man his condition is highly critical, considerable blood having been lost and the lung puncture being of a serious nature.

Joseph Sousa, Lincoln street roofer and father of five children, is held in default of $50,000 bail and is alleged by the police to have fired the shot. He pleaded not guilty before Judge Enright in district court this morning.

WILL HOLD SOCIALS AT HIGHLAND CLUB

Announcement has been made that there will be a series of Friday evening socials conducted at the Highland club hall, in Princeton street, beginning tomorrow night and continuing during the fall and winter season. This hall has been the scene of many dancing parties in the past and some of the best social functions have been held in this hall. While not the largest hall in the city, it seems to be just the right size for such gatherings. Last year similar events were conducted and always proved highly enjoyable. The dancing surface is always kept in the best of condition.

The management of these affairs has engaged Leo Daly's orchestra to furnish the music, thereby assuring the patrons of some class, and steady jazz. Daly's orchestra has been busy all summer playing at different dance halls in Lowell and vicinity. This band is probably the youngest aggregation in this city and the brand of music played is of a high order.

These functions will appeal to the younger set and the program of numbers will include the Ritz, Mah Jongg, and Collegiate predominating.

Popular prices will prevail for these parties, 50 cents being the admission fee.

HALLETT'S ORCHESTRA AT THE COMMODORE

"Nini" Hallett will be the big attraction at the Commodore ball room this evening when he and his celebrated orchestra will be on hand to furnish the music for dancing.

The Commodore has been getting ready for the winter season and the side walls have been put in place during the past week, thus making the hall more comfortable for dancing.

The check system will be used this evening while the admission is 10 cents.

Tonight night Ricardo's Belmont baseball team will hold a social and dance in this hall.

The customary session will be held on Saturday evening when dancing at the May term of the court and in which the jury reported a disagreement. The cases against Mrs. Walter V. Phelps and J. B. Kimball, ex-postmaster will be called next year, it is believed, in the order named.

HELD MEETING AT THE HARRISONIA MANOR

Frank P. Bennett, Jr., publisher of the United States Investor and the Wool and Cotton Reporter, was the principal speaker at a well-attended meeting of the Lowell Advertising Club, held at Harrisonia Manor in South Nashua last evening.

Dinner was served at 6 o'clock. President Thomas R. Atkinson called the meeting to order. A report of the outing committee was made by Chairman William Bruce and routine business was transacted.

Edward J. Conney was chairman of the day and introduced the speaker. The New England of years ago was the theme of Mr. Bennett's talk and he told of the old spirit of neighborliness which has faded into the background in recent years. He also spoke of the advantages of farm life at the present time and expressed regret at the fact that young men are leaving the farms for city life. He urged the Ad Club members to do everything in their power to assist the farmers of New England, for they are the backbone of the section.

Following Mr. Bennett's talk, dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

AUTHORITY OF MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRAR

(Special to The Sun)
BOSTON, Sept. 16.—That the registrar of motor vehicles has no legal right to rescind his own action revoking the license of an operator convicted of operating while under the influence of liquor, even if such restoration is recommended by the court in which the conviction occurred, is the substance of an opinion given to William F. Williams, commissioner of public works, by Asst. Atty. Gen. Louis Goldberg, in the absence of Atty. Gen. Jay R. Benton.

The opinion of the law officer of the commonwealth was sought because one man convicted in this state of the offense mentioned succeeded later in inducing the judge to recommend that his license be reinstated.

To this question the assistant attorney general gives this answer:

"No appeal may be made in case where the registrar has no discretion upon an appeal by a person aggrieved by such ruling or decision of the registrar, order, said ruling or the decision modified or annulled."

A fourth question was also asked, with reference to the action of the registrar in respect to cases where operating under the influence of liquor is alleged, and the case is eventually placed on file. The assistant attorney general rules that such disposition of case is to be treated as an acquittal of the defendant, and his license is to be restored.

Three questions were asked of the assistant attorney-general, as follows:

(1) When a person is convicted of operating while under the influence of liquor and the court record of such conviction is sent to the registrar without a recommendation, and the license is then revoked has the registrar the right to rescind action and restore the license at any time before the expiration of said license if the court submits a recommendation after the revocation?"

The answer is in the negative.

(2) Should the registrar decline to issue a license to a person convicted of operating under the influence of liquor—can the division of highways upon an appeal by a person aggrieved by such ruling or decision of the registrar, order, said ruling or the decision modified or annulled?"

Again the answer is "no."

HER SLAVERY ENDED

BUSINESS OUTLOOK IMPROVING

The iron and steel industry which usually leads the way for practically all other business activities is slowly but steadily climbing back toward full time operation. This may not be apparent in the metal trades around Lowell or in New England, but it is true, nevertheless.

The gain in pig-iron production in August was only 6 per cent over the July output but that was the first check to the drop that started late in March. With the national election out of the way and uncertainty and pessimism in a measure overcome, times may take a sudden boom. The iron and steel industry quite often leaps upward with amazing speed from the midst of depression. In August 1922 the pig-iron output had dropped to 1,816,170 tons. In four months it had increased to 3,000,000 tons. Such a sudden upward turn may occur again not only in iron and steel but in general business.

Frederick H. Corliss, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston gives a very optimistic view of industrial conditions in the New England district. He says the improvement in July and August was moderate; but it was nevertheless, distinctly noticeable, coming as it did when activity was comparatively low. The improvement has been accompanied by a commodity price stabilization which is a good omen for the future. Production has increased in the textile industries of New England. New England mills consumed more cotton in July than in June, while the mills in the cotton growing states of the south consumed less in July than in June. Last year New England woolen mills were quieter in July than in June; but this year they increased the consumption of wool in July about 5 per cent. The Bureau of Labor Statistics at Washington, points out that in August the textile industries reversed the drop of 7.1 per cent in employment-noted in July, making its gain 1.7 a net advance of 5.4 per cent. That increase, if maintained, would soon count for something like normal business. There is no doubt that the cotton mills have been hit hard and they have done the best they could to weather the gale.

It is freely admitted that no general resumption of industrial activity can be expected until after election; but these facts must have due weight; the steel industry is on the upgrade, so is the textile industry and the settlement in Europe should have its effect in stimulating American business. The farmer is in better shape. His buying power is now being gradually restored. Business failures are becoming less numerous and railroad freight loading has been running the highest of the year to date. All these are indications of an upper tendency in business and better times ahead.

History shows that depressions follow great wars. After the Civil war came a boom followed by depression in which prices dropped. Then came another boom and prices went up though not quite as high as before, only to be followed by another sag in prices and final recovery and stabilization. We have had an experience practically similar following the great World war; and we have not as yet got back to solid ground. The stage is now set for an upward turn and in all probability an early restoration of normal conditions.

GREAT OVATION FOR DAVIS

Thus far in the campaign, the most wonderful ovation yet tendered any candidate was the great demonstration at Bismarck, Mo., on the farm of Dr. A. A. Nelson, democratic candidate for governor, in honor of John W. Davis. The attendance was estimated at from 40,000 to 50,000 and the vast assembly showed the wildest enthusiasm for Davis as his stirring address was carried to the entire multitude by a loud speaking apparatus. No wonder that on such an occasion Mr. Davis delivered one of the greatest speeches he has made since the campaign opened. In explaining the difference between the democratic and republican parties, Mr. Davis laid down the principle that in every country where popular government has existed, there have been two conflicting theories of government, its functions and its duties. In the early days they had their two protagonists in this country in Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton. The latter believed that the function of government was the peculiar prerogative of the rich, the well born, the able and the wealthy.

On the contrary, Jefferson, the author of the Declaration of Independence, believed that all men are equal before the law, that all have equal rights and privileges. These contradictory political beliefs we see in our own day represented in the republican and democratic parties, respectively, one holding that it is the duty of the government to provide special privileges for the selected few, and that if these are well provided for, the indirect benefits will filter down in sufficient measure to the masses.

On the contrary, the democratic or Jeffersonian policy is, equal rights for all and special privileges to none. On this definition of the distinction between the two major parties, Mr. Davis built his address. In 1920 the people were told that the government would be placed in charge of the best minds in the country, but as Mr. Davis demonstrated by graphic illustrations, the republican party had betrayed the public trust, had broken its pledges and allowed corruption to run riot at Washington.

Questions of vital interest to the farmers, the tariff, taxation, freight rates, domestic and foreign markets were all ably dealt with by Mr. Davis and his attitude on each and all was loudly applauded by the vast audience.

One other subject which the candidate introduced was the question of equality in politics for the women. He felt the time had arrived when men and women as citizens should work together for common ends and the best interests of all the people.

Perhaps Mr. Davis made his greatest hits in his exposition of the tariff imports which put up the price of what the farmer had to buy and tended to keep down the price of what he had to sell. His criticism of President Coolidge for delay in dealing with the corrupt officials at Washington, particularly Secretary Daugherty of the department of justice, seemed to meet with general approval as did his incisive exposure of corruption.

This great demonstration has raised the hopes of the democrats in the middle west and it can safely be said that those who think that the democratic standard-bearer has not made a deep impression wherever he has gone will discover their mistake when the votes are counted.

Well the district court building has reached the blue print stage anyhow. It may develop new lines during the winter.

The open season for municipal candidates is now on and they are fully aware of the fact. The voters will discover their mistake when the votes are counted.

A Thought

Beware what spirit rages in your breast; for one inspired ten thousand are possessed.—Rousseau.

Obedient Orders

He was looking very worn. To a friend he confided, "I've got to go abroad. A terrible nuisance at the present time." "Well, I wouldn't neglect your doctor's orders," said his friend. "O, it wasn't a doctor," said the other. "It was my divorce lawyer."

No Hard Feelings

"I would like to return this engagement ring I purchased a few days ago," said the dejected youth. " Didn't it suit the young lady?" asked the jeweler. "Yes, but another young man had already given her one just like it, and I would like to exchange it for a wedding present."

The Harvest Bell

In many places in England, where modern agricultural reaping machinery is not used, the gleaner's bell may be still heard in harvest days. The bell notifies the village folk that they may begin to glean the fields, being rung from the church tower as soon as harvesting is sufficiently advanced for gleaning to be permissible.

Caught in the Act

One of the best of the many broadcasting stories that are floating about just now was told recently at a social gathering by Mrs. Winston Churchill. A flapper and her best boy were seated alone together on the sofa, listening in for the first time with the latter's new wireless set. Nor did the fact that both of them were wearing their head phones prevent them from snatching an occasional kiss. Just as they were in the middle of one particularly long embrace came the title of the next song, "Take Those Lips Away." "O, George!" gasped the girl, as she drew back blushing. "O, George! They can see us!"

Good "Ant" Stories

The California truth-teller was in form. "Talking of ants," he said, "we've got 'em as big as ears out west. I've seen 'em fight with long horns, which they use as lances, charging each other like savages. They don't compare with the ants I saw in the Far east," said an offensive individual nearby. "The natives have trained them as beasts of burden. One of 'em could pull a ton load for miles with ease. They work willingly, but occasionally they turn on their attendants and kill them." But this was drawing the long horns a little too far, I say, and when a shocked voice from the corner, "What sort of ants were they?" exploded, the inoffensive individual.

Stunner for Dad

Old Johnson had realized the dream of his life and turned his only son into part owner of the business he had worked up himself. There was great pride in the old man's heart the day they were installed in the office together, and he was looking forward to the projects they would work out and how the young blood would stimulate the firm. As time passed however, all did not work as old Johnson had expected, and the youngster's overbearing manner annoyed him considerably: "Look here, young man," he said one morning, "let's have less of the 'I' and more of the 'we' in this business. Remember I'm still here and that you're only junior partner." The young man seemed impressed, and the father thought his words had struck home. A few days later, however, his son appeared, looking a trifle anxious. "I say, dad, we've done it now," he remarked. "Done what?" "Well—ever—ever married the typist!"

Makes Meals Tasty

BREAD is an essential part of every meal, so its goodness is a question of great importance to you. To make sure that it is as good as bread can be, specify Betsy Ross when ordering.

Betsy Ross is a loaf of finest eating qualities. It is made with a generous portion of pure, rich milk which, combined with other choice ingredients, gives it a bread flavor that cannot be excelled. The milk, too, being high in food value, adds considerably to the nourishing qualities of the loaf.

This extra long loaf will help you to economize on bread. It gives you many slices of bread that taste like that your mother used to make. No doubt you think no other bread could ever taste so good. If so, Old Home will surprise and delight you, for it really has that home-made taste.

BIG PRIZE CONTEST
CLOSED YESTERDAY

The Lux contest, the largest prize contest for women ever held in this country, closed yesterday when checks totalling $12,125 were sent out to women all over the United States by Lever Brothers, soap manufacturers of Cambridge, Mass. The prize winners in this state were: Mrs. Eva Betterley of Springfield and Miss Lorna Glover of Duxbury, Mass.

A check for $1500 dropped into the cross roads mail box of a gray-haired lady who had sent the story of the August day when she sponge-d the flannel coast of one of the world's most famous men with Lux. Another contestant by laundering an infinite number of tiny socks, socks and dresses had saved $750 toward the college fund of her two children babies when a prize award of $1000 came along to swell her bank account.

Five hundred dollars went to the keen and conscientious saleswoman at the dress goods counter of a store in a small New England town. To increase her sales, she took home bits of material every night, laundered them in Lux and then professed the evidence when a customer asked about the laundering qualities of any piece of silk or linen.

Housekeepers from blazing Albuquerque, New Mexico, who must cope with sandstorms wrote of laundering the colorful brilliancy of their hand woven Navajo rugs; mothers from snowy Michigan, where the winters are long, described the methods by which they keep winter woolens soft and unshrunken.

In a lovely tree shaded suburb of Philadelphia stands a white Dutch Colonial house that was washed spotless and shining from eaves to underpinnings with pails of Lux suds, saving its thrifty young owners' painters' bill. One family substituted Lux suds for white paint and renovated the whole interior of their small home, battered and somewhat grimy from the ravages of six vigorous small boys.

The story of how Lux has gone along with men and women who went adventuring in far places also appeared in the contest letters, to France in nurse's bags, to Peking with missionaries, to Africa with explorers, to the farthest corners of the globe to serve a thousand uses.

Everything from the sheerest Georgette gowns to canvas tents, from oil paintings to pedigree Persian cats, from his pink and white majesty, the baby, to the family car had been washed in Lux by these enthusiastic women. There were letters from the connoisseurs of rare and beautiful things who told of restoring the lovely patina of old mahogany or the ivory and rose flesh tones of a priceless 17th century portrait with Lux.

So many letters daily poured into Lever Brothers office in Cambridge, from every corner of the globe, that it became necessary to install a miniature postoffice with dozens of girls sorting the incoming avalanche of mail. From Nicaragua, Brazil, Timpanico, Korea, Finland, India and the British West Indies came letters praising Lux although the contest was specifically limited to the United States.

Letters on sheets of rough ruled paper from little towns throughout the United States told how Lux had lightened the burden of strenuous daily routine of the women of the farms and ranches. Monogrammed, embossed and delicately scented soaps in the angular chirography that proclaims the woman of fashion told of the laundering of cherished laces and lingerie, fragile and lovely as a cloud of mist.

The prize winners were selected from 68,000 contestants, who included prominent business women, ranchwomen of the Middle West, society women, school girls and the great world of housekeeping women. Miss Martha Dodson of the Ladies' Home Journal, Miss Martha Sanford of the Woman's Home Companion, Mrs. Elizabeth Macdonald of the Modern Priscilla, Miss L. Ray Baldwin, author of Laundry and Mrs. Ellen B. McGowan, co-author of Textile and Clothing, were the judges who selected the prize winning letters.

Strips of New South Wales stamps, of different values and dating back to 1855, were discovered recently in the record office, London.

We Can Help

NEW England had the first telephone line in the world to transmit human speech in the form of a connected sentence. It was located in a lodging house at 5 Exeter Place, Boston, on the site of the present Textile Building. It consisted of only two telephones attached to a stretch of telephone wire running from Professor Bell's bedroom to another room, where his assistant, Watson, was stationed during experiments.

By contrast there are now over a million telephones in that section of New England operated by this company, and the growth is more rapid than at any period in its history. Last year we installed 212,912 telephones, took out 138,450, and made a net gain of 74,462.

The value of telephone service is increased as the extent of possible intercommunication increases. Nevertheless, its cost is far less than it was ten years ago, measured by commodity prices or the purchasing power of money. In that decade our rates have increased only about 15 per cent.

Telephone growth indicates progress. Telephone service makes New England a more livable place socially; and it makes it a better market place for those who can do their marketing by wire.

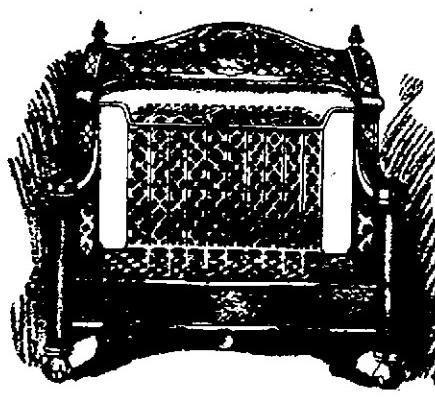

We can help.

A pretty autumn wedding and one of interest in social and fraternal circles, both locally and in Tyngsboro, was solemnized last evening when Mr. Charles Dodge Coffin of Tyngsboro and Miss M. Marion Daniels of this city were married at the home of the bride's parents in Norcross street by Rev. Charles E. Eaton of Milton, great uncle of the bride. Mr. David F. Cadell, sister of the bride, and Mr. A. Raymond Coffin of this city, brother of the bridegroom attended the couple as matron of honor and best man, respectively. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white Canton crepe, running with yell of tulip caught up with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilles of the valley. The matron of honor wore orchid georgette with white lace and carried Columbia roses. The Misses Ruth and Olive Johnson of Peabody, cousins of the bridegroom, were the flower girls. They wore pink georgette and carried baskets of Columbian roses. Phyllis Currier of Tyngsboro, niece of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. She wore blue georgette.

The house was prettily arranged for the occasion and resembled a veritable bower of roses and evergreens. Mrs. J. MacBurrie sister of the groom, played the wedding march. Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served by a caterer assisted by the Misses Marion Vasselin, Dorothy Billson and Mildred Stevens of North Chelmsford and the Misses Olga Elmberg and Alice Slavely of this city, friends of the bride. The ushers were the Messrs. David F. Cadell, Raymond McKittrick and Fred E. Daubel, all of this city, and Mr. James MacBurrie of North Chelmsford. The gift of the bride to the bridegroom was a smoking set; to the matron of honor, a silver mesh bag; and to the flower girls and ring bearer, green gold bracelets. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a green gold bracelet set with sapphires while his favors to the usher were especially nice pins. The best man received a bridge pin. Mr. and Mrs. Coffin will make their home in the North Square apartments, Suite 3, Chelmsford Center, where they will be at home after Dec. 1.

also again this evening. Every show is well worth attending, and the admission to everything is free.

All products from gardens and home was unique in that cabbages and kitchen exhibited at the fair will be white carrots worn exhibited, among given to the city's poor by the management. It is expected that many hundreds of unfortunate men, women and children of the city at large will receive benefits in the shape of market garden products for home dining tables, as a result of this year's highly successful affair conducted for the first time in the main auditorium of the Memorial building on East Merrimack street.

Wonderful School Exhibits

One of the real wonders of the 1924 exhibition of Middlesex county products of the soil in the Auditorium, is the remarkable display in lavish form of many beautiful examples of school gardening, the exhibits of striking quality and attractiveness being displayed by enthusiastic pupils of 25 Lowell elementary schools.

Miss Alice T. Lee, school garden supervisor, had charge of the wonderful exhibit, and was assisted in arranging the Auditorium displays by Miss Margaret Marron, Miss Margaret McDonald, Miss Rose Dowd, Miss Christine Kane, Miss Esther Cooney, Miss Katherine Thomas and Miss Frances Grant.

From the different schools, where children raise flowers and vegetables like professional market gardeners, came a host of offerings, gleaned from the plants and soil by boys and girls of tender years, and brought joyously by the armful through the thoroughfares of the city, straight to the Memorial Auditorium.

The school children fairly streamed into the Auditorium in the morning and afternoon, yesterday, many of them with wonderful bouquets of flowers of many assorted varieties, summer and fall bearings. Greenhalge school pupils were among the first to arrive, with an artistic and extremely novel display of dahlias, Ernest Clingman, pupil of the school, bringing the floral offerings. Mrs. Clingman, president of the Parent-Teachers' association, with in the Auditorium all day and assisted Miss Agnes Dudley, Varna, whose school's exhibit attracted much attention. The handsome silk curtain flag and many flowers made the table chosen for this school offering very inviting. Miss Rose Dowd was in charge here, and every grade through to the junior high, was represented in the displays.

Pawtucket school pupils had one of the largest exhibitions of garden products at the show, Miss Allard, assisted by Romeo St. Armand, president of the school garden club; Charles Noonan, Leo Habert and Lester Lawrence, had charge of the offerings. The prize squash of the fair was found in this wonderful exhibit.

Riverside school's excellent exhibit was arranged by Miss Irving, and it was arranged by Misses Irving and Barrett. The offerings featured show dahlias, raised by Ernest Clingman of 18 Eustis avenue. Thirteen different varieties of dahlias are on display, showing wonderful colors and size. Vegetables raised from government seeds are also shown. There is an immense red cabbage placed in the center of the Greenhalge exhibit of fruits and vegetables and flowers, and this is flanked on one side by a crate of potatoes and on the other by a crate of apples. The school children also brought to their special table cucumbers, squashes, beets, carrots, onions, tomatoes, pumpkins and turnips in cans surrounded by large bouquets of flowers. In the background was the attractive Greenhalge banner.

Other attractive exhibits were arranged and displayed by Washington, Pawtucket, Abraham Lincoln, Edison, Bartlett and Colburn schools. In the primary division, there were offerings by pupils of Pine street, Dover street, Laura Lee, London street, Carter street, Lyon street, Tenlin street, Jackson street and Sydmore street schools.

JUST A FEW YEARS AGO

Some Facts Concerning Lowell's Early Plans for Street Development

Interesting Details Concerning Pawtucket Boulevard and Old Durkee House

In days of old when Lowell seriously took up the work of developing plans for better streets and highway connections with towns adjoining the fast-growing municipality on the Merrimack, attention was drawn very naturally to the so-called "River roads."

Macadamized thoroughfares were not a part of the Spindle City's transportation scheme of things in the long ago. Gravel roads were popular, but no untoward sums of the taxpaying money were spent upon extensive road-building campaigns in Lowell's earlier history. And, indeed, "river roads" were rarely "mac'd" by gravelers up and down both sides of the Merrimack stream, for the river used to contain more water some 50 years ago, and the overflows in the spring of the year when the freshets came, covered many miles of the "river roads" and left the marks of the water ravages. A spring freshet was a very ordinary thing indeed in those days, and not a subject for sensational discussions.

The year came and departed in the usual way, until along in the '50's, the city fathers, at the suggestion of reputable Lowell citizens affiliated, of course, with the rapidly-developing textile industries, finally agreed to study a proposition calling for the construction of a highway along the Merrimack river bank, to be known as "The Pawtucket Boulevard."

The proposition was not a new one,

but it was not until the year 1859 that public sentiment in Lowell and Dracut became thoroughly aroused and enthusiasm for the project crystallized, that the vigorous civic leaders in the movement for a river boulevard traffic thoroughfare made an immediate step forward and "started the ball a-rolling."

Some Interesting Details

Interesting details of the first formal inspection trip made by Lowell citizens to the site of the Pawtucket boulevard project, are now in possession of Mr. Joseph M. Wilson, of No. 22 Seventh avenue, Pawtucketville. Mr. Wilson is an established authority on affairs historical covering old-time Dracut and environs. His delving into the records of the long ago brings to light much valuable genealogical information and facts relating to ancient history in the Pawtucketville section of Lowell.

Mr. Wilson has uncovered an interesting newspaper account of the first inspection of the site of the proposed Pawtucket boulevard, which took place in the year 1859. The story is not particularly ancient, as it relates to Lowell familiars of nineteenth century days, yet it tells with much detail the reasons for the formal journey to the banks of the Merrimack in Pawtucketville, and what happened during the memorable trip. The following clipping reads as follows:

"Town of Charles H. Hanson's large carriage carried a good representation of the members of the city government and other citizens to an inspection of the proposed Pawtucket boulevard site yesterday afternoon. Many others availed themselves of private conveyances to the same end. Of the party, the following officials joined in the inspection:

"Aldermen Holden, Putnam and Senter; Councilmen Johnson of Ward 1; Chier, Brousseau and Sherwood of Ward 2; Sparks and Donahue of Ward 3; Cheney, Walsh, Gray and Hale of Ward 4; Blood, Hartwell, Ladd and Draper of Ward 5; Lawrence of Ward 6; Representatives Garvey and Carter, City Treasurer Chase, Superintendent Wright of the city water works, Chief Engineer Hosmer, Superintendent Boals of the street department.

"Major Henry Emery, Levi Sprague, ex-Alderman Ruane, Charles D. Starbird, Frank J. Feeney of 'The Spirit of The Times,' and other well known citizens also rode over the grounds.

The fences and walls have been taken down and a small stream near the entrance has been bridged so as to allow teams to go over the whole course. A large portion of these will make this inspection had not before seen the premises, and all expressed themselves as much pleased with the location as a site for the project.

"The street will be two miles in length and will be 150 feet wide from the water's edge. At the end of the road a 60-foot wide street will connect it with Vernon avenue.

"After driving over the boulevard site, the party was driven to a point above the Forest house, where there is a large gravel bank that could be used by the city if it were found necessary in building the road.

The Old Durkee House

"The party was then driven to the old Major Durkee house, formerly the Blood estate, where Page & Nunn had prepared a tempting collation. This old house is by far the oldest building in this part of the country. It is claimed to be 200 years old (sic: in 1859), having been built a few years after Boston was founded.

"The old relic was thoroughly inspected, and its diagonally-built frame-work, its old-fashioned chimney and ancient fireplaces, its windows with small panes of glass, its dry-wall system of drainage, etc., were all thoroughly examined.

"Councilman Blood was of the party and told some anecdotes about the old building, one room of which is partitioned off as a dance hall, and an elevated stage is still there where the musicians of yore added their music, while the inhabitants for merriment gathered to take part in the country dance.

"Councilman Blood's grandfather was born in this house, and died there at the age of 95 years, having lived his whole life there. After the house had been thoroughly examined and the good things provided by Page & Nunn had been sampled very liberally, the party returned to the city, all favorably impressed with the new street."

CASES IN THE CAMBRIDGE COURT

TWO YOUTHS TO BE HANGED

Thos. Foran, 17 and Claude Dobbs, 19, Sentenced to Be Hanged for Murder

Convicted of Killing Louis Cohen, Jeweler, at Ballimore Last May

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 17.—Thomas Foran, 17, of Philadelphia and Claude Dobbs, 19, of Baltimore, were sentenced today to be hanged for the murder of Louis Cohen, a jeweler. Charles Mullen, another Baltimore youth, was given life imprisonment for the same murder.

The bandits had snatched a display window in Cohen's store last May and were making off with gems valued at approximately $5,000 when the jeweler attempted to stop them. One of them said to have been Dobbs, shot Cohen who died a few hours later.

George Gross, another of the gang, was shot and killed by detectives the day after his escape from jail last summer.

DARROW TO AID IN FIGHT TO SAVE GRANT

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—Clarence Darrow, attorney for Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, a Chicago business organization and a church sneaky, have joined the fight to save Bernard Grant from hanging on Oct. 17.

Mr. Darrow in response to a telegram from Grant's counsel today telephoned from Charlevoix, Mich., that he would return here next week and that he would be "glad to do what I can."

Thomas E. Swanson, attorney for Grant, has received from the men's Bible class of the Methodist church at Greenwood, Ind., a copy of a letter the class had sent to Governor Small asking clemency for Grant.

Grant's plea for clemency, prepared by his attorney, may not be sent to Governor Small until after the return of Mr. Darrow. It relates that Walter Krauser, under sentence with Grant for the murder of Ralph Souders, a policeman, in a hold-up in 1922, now repudiates his statement implicating Grant and declares that Grant had nothing to do with it. Grant claims he was 19 years old when the crime was committed—the age of Leopold and Loeb.

TO INVITE U. S. TO SEND REPRESENTATIVE

GENEVA, Sept. 17. (By the Associated Press)—The sub-commission on disarmament of the League of Nations assembly to consider the advisability of inviting the United States government to send a representative to collaborate with the league's permanent disarmament commission in framing a draft convention for control of the private manufacture of arms. This draft would serve as the basis later for an international conference.

The United States participated in the league's work of framing the draft convention for international control of traffic in arms.

U. S. BUSINESS MEN ASKED TO AID GERMANY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 17.—American business is called upon for business-like co-operation with Germany and helpfulness toward the preliminary loan that must be floated to put the Dawes plan into effect in a declaration made today by the Board of Directors of the National Association of Credit Men.

"Europe, after five years of chaos, has at last made a start on the road to genuine peace," say the credit men, "and the world breathes easier. Many observers believe that, if the London conference had failed to ratify the Dawes plan, Europe would have been sunk in despair."

GANGSTER ARRESTED AT POINT OF GUN IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—Policemen with revolvers drawn arrested Charles Reilly, South End gangster, today as the "Edward Simpson" wanted for the shooting of Patrolman David M. McCarthy on a South End street corner Monday night. Surprised in his room, Reilly offered no resistance. At the hospital he was identified by McCarthy as his assailant, and Frederick Gill identified him later as the man with whom he wrestled in a doorway after the shooting and from whom he took a loaded .32-caliber revolver. The police are still seeking "Irish" Conley, as Reilly's companion, both being charged with assault with intent to kill.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Anthony Cleto, captured last night after a posseman was stabbed three times with a stiletto while defending Lieut. NURSE GOES TO PRISON

Margaret Harte Admits Living on Proceeds of Forged Checks for 23 Years

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—Margaret Harte, 43, a nurse, graduated from a Boston hospital in 1901, who admitted living on the proceeds of forged checks for 23 years, today was sentenced to the state prison for women at Auburn for terms totalling five years by two general sessions justices.

According to police records the woman had been convicted seven times previously on forged check charges. She had served four terms in New York state and three in Pennsylvania, having been convicted in Philadelphia in 1909, 1910 and 1915. Her latest offense was committed in a New York department store, where she obtained a number of articles on a forged check.

"Men managers of hotels, department stores and other similar places fall for a woman and cash checks without any questioning," the woman told court officials. "All the trouble I've got into has been caused by my dealing with women, not with men."

SUICIDE OF GILMER CLAPP STILL A MYSTERY

BOSTON, Sept. 17.—The suicide, by shooting last night of Gilmer Clapp, president of the American Pneumatic Service Company and executor of the estate of the late George Oliver Adams, was still a matter of mystery today. Confidences that he had held with persons over financial matters in recent days were unexplained, and relatives said the acts might be traced to the divorce from his wife three years ago. She was Janette M. Morrison of Portland, Me.

Miss Beatrice Clapp of Waltham, a sister, to whom he left a statement understood to give the reasons for taking his life, would not discuss the contents with outsiders today.

NEW COACH NAMED TODAY FOR HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

Al Pierotti, Everett High, Washington and Lee University and Professional Gridiron Star Signs Contract As Assistant to Head Coach James Liston for 1924 Season

Al Pierotti of Everett, former All-American centre, coach at the University of Washington and for several seasons lineman with Jim Thorpe's famous Canton Bulldogs in the professional ranks, went to work here this afternoon as assistant coach of the Lowell high school football team. He was engaged by school authorities this month for a period of ten weeks, and with Coach James Liston will work out the local school's gridiron destiny this fall.

The engagement of Pierotti ought to be a ten-strike in high school football history. He is one of the outstanding football men of the country during the past decade and in every way is well equipped to coach either high school or college elevens. He has been under consideration by the local school officials for several weeks and came to the city yesterday to talk over the situation and meet school committee members and others interested. His engagement was clinched at a second meeting this noon and he at once went into action at Alumni Field.

With the largest football squad out in the history of the schools and, without a higher pitch than ever before, this year's school team ought to develop into a consistent winner, something which has been lacking for some time. Faculty Manager James Conway said today there are 80 boys out for the team and every one of them is properly equipped. Nothing is being overlooked to make the 1924 eleven a creditable one and Pierotti's acquire-

SLIDES OUT OF JAIL CAR SKIDDDED, TURNED TURTLE, TWO INJURED

Eizmann Greased Body With Vaseline and Dropped Through Air Passage

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Laverne Eizmann, a slippery prisoner who slid out of the Clarion county jail to freedom several days ago by greasing his body with vaseline and dropping through a small air passage, was back in his cell today. He was captured near his home last night. Eizmann, charged with burglary, picked the lock of his cell and made his way to the upper tier where the small airway leads to the outside. Eizmann, who could not squeeze through a small opening in his natural state, the prisoners used the vaseline freely and a few minutes later slipped to freedom.

An officer led him back into the jail, the cook was cautioned to "hide the larder here" Eizmann."

SCHOONER WITH SEVEN ABOARD BELIEVED LOST

GLoucester, Mass., Sept. 18.—With no report form the schooner Anita and Berlitz L. since the gales of Aug. 27 the belief is growing today that another Gloucester fishing vessel has passed to the port of missing ships. The Anita and Berlitz L. sailed from Boston four weeks ago on a sword fishing trip to the George's Banks. She was last sighted on the banks just before the storms that swept the north Atlantic coast in late August.

The schooner was commanded by Captain Albert Larsen of this city and carried a crew of seven. She was built at Friendship, Me., in 1917. The men who sailed on her were Edward M. and Charles Larsen all of Gloucester; Joseph Targett of Newfoundland; Alvin Selling and Hilary Conrad, both of Lunenburg, N.S.

The gay procession of the fish and game enthusiasts attracted much attention and many citizens lining the down-town sidewalks, gave them a noisy send-off. A bugler led the sportsmen's touring party.

All members went to the park by auto. Dinner was served promptly in the big caissons at the park, chicken and turkey being the main delicacies in the list of appetizing morsels. After dinner exercises were scheduled to start before the sports program and numerous speakers were invited to address the assemblage. Congressman John Jacob Rogers was an invited guest, and Commissioner William C. Adams, of the fish and game conservation department of Massachusetts, was also an invited guest and speaker.

The program of afternoon sports included trap-shooting, ball-casting, running races, quoits, pillow fights, sap races, boat races, potato races and putting the shot. An English drag hunt was the biggest card of the day, Groton fox-hounds of the fancy-breeding type, being present to give a professional performance and round the hunt for the day.

Today's celebration was conducted under the management of Chairman William C. Purcell and Secretary Frederick W. Barrows.

RELIEF FROM DYSPEPSIA PLAN TO EXTEND WORK OF SCHOOL

All conditions of depressed vitality tend to disturb the process of digestion. There is not a disturbed condition of life that may not affect digestion.

Few causes of indigestion are so common as thin, weak blood. It affects directly and at once the great processes of nutrition. Not only is the action of the gastric and intestinal glands diminished but the muscular action of the stomach is weakened. Nothing will more promptly restore the digestive efficiency than good red blood. Without it the normal activity of the stomach is impossible.

Thin, pale people who complain of indigestion must improve the condition of their blood to find relief. The most active blood-builder in such cases is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They make rich, red blood which quickly restores the digestive organs to their proper activity and the first result is hunger. The dyspeptic who has hated the sight and smell of food now looks forward to meal time with pleasurable anticipation. Care now in the selection and quality of food will put the patient well on the road to health. A diet book, "What to Eat and How to Eat," will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.—Adv.

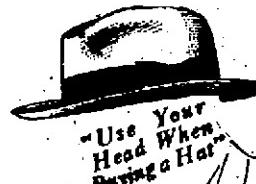

Plans for enlarging the work of the Lowell School of Religious Education were formulated at a meeting of the committee in charge of the school last evening at the Y. M. C. A. The committee consists of the following: Rev. George F. Sturtevant, Edwin T. Shaw, Arthur Lundwall, Arthur Whelan, Rev. William B. Tuthill, Dr. Dr. Rev. W. J. Setzer, Rev. Charles S. Otto, Mrs. Lester Armstrong, Fred Taylor, J. W. D. Ryan, Clarence E. Tracy, Louis A. Olney and Harold E. Howe.

The Sun is on sale in the North Station, Boston.

The purpose of the school is to give special training to teachers of local church schools and it was voted by the committee to have a ten weeks' session this year and to provide a new staff of teachers, with Boston university contributing at least two to the staff.

NATIONAL LEAGUE PENNANT MAY BE WON OR LOST TODAY

GIANTS, ROBINS AND PIRATES PLAY DOUBLE-HEADERS TODAY

Outcome of Today's Battles Will Have Important Bearing on Pennant—Yankees and Senators Again Tied For Leadership In American League.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—With the Giants, Robins and Pirates playing double headers, the National League pennant may be won or lost today.

By winning twice while Brooklyn and Pittsburgh lost two, the Giants would increase their lead over the former to three and one-half contests and over the latter to four and one-half, apparently safe margin with an average of ten games left for each club to play.

But, by losing two while their rivals won a brace, New York would fall a half game behind Brooklyn into second place, only a half contest ahead of the Pirates and into a battle royal which might go into the closing minutes of the season.

Either Pittsburgh or Brooklyn would virtually fall out of the race by losing two if the others won twice.

In the meantime, Washington and New York are piling in a sustained wrestling match which the last ounce of strength seems destined to sustain.

The Yankees, by winning twice from the Browns yesterday while Washington beat Cleveland once again tied for first place.

The struggles at the Polo grounds will find McGraw's brace of southpaws—the veteran Neft and the youthful Bentley—opposed to Rixey and Lajoie of the Reds.

At Boston, manager Robinson will send the eminent Dazzy Vance in quest of his 15th straight victory. Bill Doak will be the second Robin hurler to chirp belligerently at the Cards. Yde, the sensational southpaw recruit, and probably Meadows, will walk to the hill for McKechnie as.

the Pittsburgh hopes against the Phillips.

The double-headers in the National were made necessary by the postponement of all games yesterday by rain.

Walter Johnson, for whom Manager Harris and his spirited Senators are trying to win an opportunity for a world series start, continued to uphold his major responsibility in the Washington series by holding Cleveland to seven hits yesterday and winning his 13th straight victory of the year with a score of 3 to 2.

He fanned six men which increased his season's strike-out total to 149 and his all-time total of 3215. Sam Rice, Senator right-fielder, made a season's record for the American league by hitting safely in his 24th consecutive game.

While Johnson weathered a storm to win the first Yankee victory at St. Louis, he was touched for 12 hits, but his mates converted their nine off Urban Shocker into a 7 to 3 triumph.

In the second world champion slugged five Brown hurlers for 15 hits and an 8 to 7 decision. Herb Pennock saved the game after Joe Dunn was driven from the box by the Detroit fell six games behind the two leaders whom the Athletics drove Whitehill from the box in a ninth inning rally which earned four runs and 8 to 8 victory. Ty Cobb, by masking three hits, needs only three more to break his joint major league record with Willie Keeler, of 200 or more hits in eight seasons.

The White Sox traded last place to Boston by launching a heavy assault upon Ferguson which gave them a 3 to 2 game over the Red Sox. Roberton was well supported.

Flanagan and Boyle In Main Event — Madoona and O'Brien in Semi-Final

BOXING BOUTS TONIGHT

Flanagan and Boyle In Main Event — Madoona and O'Brien in Semi-Final

Phinney Boyle of Lowell and Tommy Flanagan of New Bedford, who are to meet in the main event of the Moody club card in Crescent rink tonight are in splendid condition, according to word received from the training camp today. The withdrawal of Tony Julian from the match, as announced yesterday because of an injury while training, caused some disappointment, but the manager feels he was unusually fortunate being able to secure Flanagan, and expresses confidence that the substitution like the few he was obliged to make last season, will prove satisfactory.

Flanagan is well known here, where he defeated George Brooks in a sensational mill a few years ago. But he has added considerably to his record since then. He won a victory over George Kid Lee, who now holds the New England lightweight title, also victories over the hard hitting Newport Johnny Brown, Budde Clark, Tommy Jordan, Tommy Leahy, Harry Carlson and Jimmy Fruzzetti. Truly a fine record.

Flanagan has been training with Frankie Britt, Billy Carney, Young Manly and a number of other stars of the whaling town, and reports say he is in fine condition. He will need to be for Boyle has been working out for several weeks in preparation for a busy season. Boyle had trained especially to meet Julian, but as Flanagan is also of the fighting type he feels he can accommodate his style to that of the whaler.

The winner of the bout has been promised a match with Julian, probably next week. If the latter is in condition to box.

The other bouts on tonight's card look good. The semi-final ought to be a hummer. Nick Madoona, the Lexington minute man, and Jack O'Brien of Lawrence are listed to perform for their third time. Their previous bouts were bouncers.

Gus Anderson, who has won every professional bout he has appeared in via the knockout route, will meet a tartar in Bobby Barrett of Cambridge in one of the preliminaries. Barrett will be a genuine bantam, 100 lbs., who halted Frankie Byrne's sensational string of kayos by applying a sleep producer on the Lawrencian. There will be another six rounder.

The tenth round was the most furious of the night. Greenway into Tunney at the start, swinging his arms like flails, but Tunney came back and won the round by a furious attack that was still in progress when the bell rang. He caught Greb with a left hook that all but knocked him to the canvas.

Matt Hinckle, referee of the contest, said that he had been permitted to give a decision, he would have declared the contest a draw. The newspaper experts, however, even those from Pittsburgh, were of the opinion that Tunney had the shade.

Tunney did most of his fighting at distance, while Greb swung his punches from close range frequently.

Tunney, ducking under Greb, sweeping leads, battered the middleweight titleholder's body with jolting rights.

TUNNEY SHADES GREB IN CLEVELAND BOUT

CLEVELAND, Sept. 18.—Gene Tunney, American light heavyweight champion, today held a draw with a possible mate, if any, over Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, as a result of their ten-round no-decision contest decided in the open air arena here last night.

Matt Hinckle, referee of the contest, said that he had been permitted to give a decision, he would have declared the contest a draw. The newspaper experts, however, even those from Pittsburgh, were of the opinion that Tunney had the shade.

RICARD'S BELMONT'S DANCE FRIDAY EVE

Ricard's Belmonts, who set up a good record on the diamond this past season, hope to uphold their reputation at the Commodore ballroom tomorrow evening, when they will entertain their friends with a dancing party. According to Manager John Ball, who directed the ball tossers during the season, there will be "no bench warmers, as everyone will get into the game."

On a ball team it is necessary to carry substitutes, pinch hitters, extra pitchers, etc., and sometimes they are not called into play. Tomorrow night, however, all will have a chance and few are expected to "strike out."

During the ball season, when novelties and prizes, were awarded from time to time, two handsome cups are to be given away at the dancing party. One will go to the winner of the prize waltz while the other will go to the leader in a fox trot. The cups are on exhibition at Ricard's Jewelry store and they have attracted considerable attention during the week. The judges for the prize events will be Mayor Donovan, Rep. Henry Achlin, Frank Ricard and Cornelius O'Neill, Esq.

members of the local "T": Bruce Douglass, Wassabu Innwakas, Ralph Doug-

THE LOWELL JUNIOR TWILIGHT LEAGUE

St. Joseph's Cadets have successfully held to the coveted position of first place in the Lowell Junior Twilight League.

Taking the lead in the first days of the league they have been consistent winners except in two isolated instances and are now leading the season with only one loss games played, as follows:

Their standing ranks as 800.

As leaders of the league, the Cadets have gained the league pennant and the silver trophy cup presented by the league president, William J. Peitler, the Merrimack and Jewel.

Mr. Peitler also donated a gold Waltham watch to the man who after the final game has the best batting average of the league. One more game is scheduled between the Emeralds and the Pawtucket Blues; until then the winner of the watch will not be decided.

Most of the success of the Cadets is due to the ability and management of "Bucky" Richards, team manager, and "Pete" Richards, peerless twirler of the league. However, entire credit can not be attributed to any one of two because at all times all members work in with the perfect coordination that is required for a baseball champion ship team. Gilman, Paquin and Poulier, playing first, second and catcher respectively were also important factors in the team's success.

BUTLERS OUT FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP

The Butler A.A. Seconds, one of the strongest semi-pro teams to be represented on the gridiron last fall, wish to tell the world that this year's aggregation is to be even bigger and better.

The Butlers are out for the championship and wish to state that they will aspire to such honors.

Practice will be held Thursday night this week, and every former member is urged to attend, as a manager and captain will be elected. The Butlers are barring no-one from trying out, so those desirous of a chance need only report to our present captain (Dad) Sheehan on said night at Butler park.

WERE PUT THROUGH STIFF WORKOUT

Coach Eddie Cawley of the Lowell

Textile school football squad put the candidates through a stiff workout on the campus yesterday afternoon. While Cawley was paying his attention to the backfield aspirants, Ernie Perry, his assistant, concerned himself with the linemen.

As only 10 days more remain before the opening game with Bates, the coaches intend to keep the players on edge. Punting, falling on the ball, and dummy tackling constituted yesterday's program and the menu was concluded this afternoon.

A Brilliant, Black,

Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 3

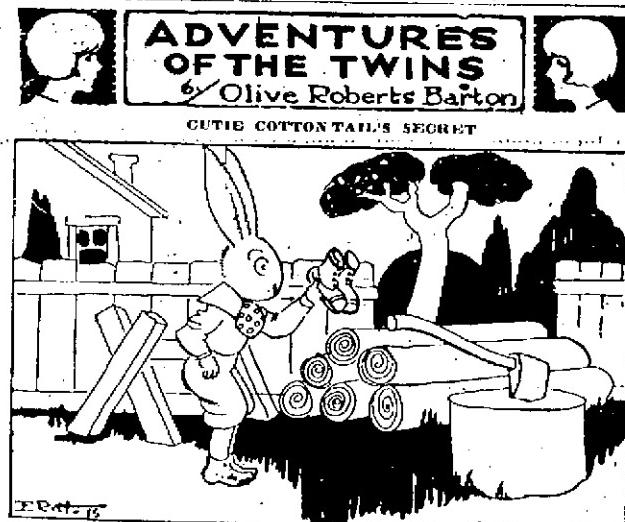

Flip, upon spying the cub tigers, started to bark. Immediately the little fellows perked up their ears, turned about and dashed off into the underbrush. Almost as soon as they were out of sight a loud roar shook the surrounding territory. Jack knew that a much bigger tiger was nearby.

Following the roar the little adventurer heard the crackling of twigs and out from behind a large pile of brush stalked the mother tiger. She stopped short when she saw Jack, Flip and the little pet monkey, Hop. Then she sat back on her haunches and opened her mouth wide, showing big white teeth.

Flip started to bark again but Jack grabbed him before he could charge down on the mother tiger. Then the tiger crouched down and Jack felt that she was about to leap at him. The tiger took one step forward and then Jack heard a loud click. The tiger had been caught in a trap. (Continued.)

"I'M NEVER, NEVER, NEVER GOING TO WEAR YOU AS LONG AS I LIVE!" HE SAID TO THE SHOES.

"Well," said Mister Snip Snap to the Twins. "Did you find out what it was that was wearing out Cutie Cotton Tail's secret?

is doing the damage. After school this afternoon watch and see what Cutie does. The great mystery is about to be solved."

That afternoon, when school was out, Nancy and Nick were waiting.

Freddy Frog came out first.

"Here's for the swimming hole," he shouted, hopping away as fast as he could go.

Then came Cob and Corny Coon.

"Here's for the sweet-corn patch," they yelled, and were off.

Then came Scamper and Scramble Squirrel.

"Frost last night, fellows," they called. "Let's see who can shinny up the chestnut tree first."

But Cutie Cottontail came out with his cousins, the Bunny boys, and started straight for home.

Nancy and Nick followed him, feeling sure they were now going to find out just what it was that wore Cutie's shoes out so fast.

"I do declare," said Mister Snip Snap. "It is the greatest mystery I ever heard of. It's as bad as the fairy tale about the seven princesses who danced their shoes to pieces every night and nobody was able to find out where they went. Ha! I have an idea! I have a wonderful idea!"

"What?" cried the Twins just like that.

"Why, if Cutie Cottontail doesn't wear his shoes out in school he must be wearing them out some place else," said the fairyman.

"So he must," said Nancy.

"Of course," said Nick.

"That's just it!" cried Mister Snip Snap as pleased as Punch about being so smart. "The next thing is to find where it is, and, what it is that causes wear out so fast."

"No, Mister Snip Snap," said Nick. "We didn't. We visited the school in the woods yesterday and all the scholars did was study spelling and arithmetic and reading and writing. They used their hands a lot, but their feet hardly any at all, and there wasn't anything that would make Cutie's shoes wear out so fast."

"No, Mister Snip Snap," said Nick. "We didn't. We visited the school in the woods yesterday and all the scholars did was study spelling and arithmetic and reading and writing. They used their hands a lot, but their feet hardly any at all, and there wasn't anything that would make Cutie's shoes wear out so fast."

"I do declare," said Mister Snip Snap. "It is the greatest mystery I ever heard of. It's as bad as the fairy tale about the seven princesses who danced their shoes to pieces every night and nobody was able to find out where they went. Ha! I have an idea! I have a wonderful idea!"

"What?" cried the Twins just like that.

"Why, if Cutie Cottontail doesn't wear his shoes out in school he must be wearing them out some place else," said the fairyman.

"So he must," said Nancy.

"Of course," said Nick.

"That's just it!" cried Mister Snip Snap as pleased as Punch about being so smart. "The next thing is to find where it is, and, what it is that causes wear out so fast."

"No, Mister Snip Snap," said Nick. "We didn't. We visited the school in the woods yesterday and all the scholars did was study spelling and arithmetic and reading and writing. They used their hands a lot, but their feet hardly any at all, and there wasn't anything that would make Cutie's shoes wear out so fast."

TO CONSTRUCT PROTOCOL WHICH
REALY WILL MAKE FOR PEACE

Statesmen at Geneva Hope to Plug Up Every Hole in Covenant of League of Nations So That Nobody Can Crawl Out and Have Excuse to Start War

GENEVA, Sept. 18. (By the Associated Press)—Plugging up every hole in the covenant of the League of Nations so that nobody can crawl out and have an excuse to start a war, is the picturesque phraseology now used in Geneva to describe the efforts of the statesmen and jurists to construct a protocol which really will make for peace.

Paragraph eight of Article 15 of the covenant declares that "If the dispute between the parties is claimed by one of them, and is found by the council, to arise out of a matter which by international law is solely within the domestic jurisdiction of that party, the council shall so report and shall make no recommendations as to its settlement."

Everybody regards this as negative and as leaving a hole in the covenant which must be plugged. Radclyffe, Ambassador of Brazil, M. Politis of Greece and M. Loucheur of France have been charged with this plugging operation, and are continuing their study of the question today.

The French idea is that, if the council is unanimous in declaring any dispute purely a domestic question, all the members of the league must accept its decision and engage solemnly not to make the issue involved a cause for war.

Although making no change in the position they have held for the last week and although they are careful to reiterate that Great Britain intends to stand by the covenant and all its sanctions, the British delegates in the last 24 hours have given indications of a kind of shrinking up in attitude and a tendency to avoid comment on the progress of the assembly.

They seem to apprehend that any unlimited commitment of the services of the British fleet in the interest of maintaining peace would meet with disfavor at home. There is a distinct feeling here that Great Britain does not wish to excite the apprehensions or misgivings of the American people as to what the British might do in connection with American commerce in the event of any conflict arising in Europe.

The French, however, continue to express satisfaction with the progress of the negotiations and seem assured that the protocol with the backing of Great Britain and with the authorization of supplementary clauses, will amply afford those guarantees which they believe essential to the security of their country.

Feature of Agenda

GENEVA, Sept. 18.—(By the Associated Press)—Replies from the various governments as to what they could do in the general contribution of action under sanctions to come into play against any state adjudged an aggressor are likely to form one of the chief features of the agenda of the proposed international conference on disarmament.

The article in the protocol drafted by Dr. Benes of Czechoslovakia concerning the application of penalties is general in its nature and many of the delegates think it will be necessary to obtain from each government some concrete outline of what it will offer, economically, financially or militarily, in any emergency. It is argued such assistance would provide something definite for the disarmament conference to work upon and give a more rational basis for a possible agreement on the reduction of armaments.

The sub-commissions today continued their detailed examination of the arbitration clauses in the proposed protocol and gave particular attention also to the examination of measures to be adopted while arbitration proceedings are going on between affected states. The goal is elimination of the dangers of conflicts breaking out while the arbitral machinery is being set in motion.

NINE INCHES SLICED OFF MAN'S "BAY WINDOW"

BATTLE GREEK, Mich., Sept. 18.—Maurice Goodman, reported to be a New York theatre owner, was on an operating-table here for two hours yesterday while Dr. J. S. Case of this city sliced nine inches off his "bay window." Goodman will return to New York forty pounds lighter than when he arrived here, his physician declared.

A recommendation for making defense test day an annual event set for Sept. 12, was contained in the military affairs committee report adopted by the convention. Legionnaires were urged to "continue that splendid cooperation to make the day successful."

The convention also adopted the report of the naval affairs committee which urged that "our battle fleet be placed immediately on an absolute parity with the strongest navy in the world in the matter of range and power of its guns."

Among states receiving trophies for exceeding their 1923 membership were: Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Florida, Virginia, New York, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and also the Canal Zone.

Florida heading the list, received the MacNider trophy presented by the Iowa department.

Greetings were read from the allied military committees of Versailles.

Chinese Wall Bombed

Tientsin was threatened with a coal famine today as the result of an embargo placed on coal from the Kailan mines. A coal shortage at this port would affect coastwise shipping as this is the bunkering harbor for all craft.

Moreover, the recent floods have resulted in heavy silk deposits from the Taku Bar, and should coal be cut off from dredgers working continuously on the bar, Tientsin would be shut off from navigation.

The embargo on coal was placed Wednesday by the Chinese ministry of communications at Peking.

Lowell Milkman Shot by Gunmen ice cheat in the rear of his barn, which adjoins his house at Stevens street and Bell avenue, when the pair entered. It was quite dark and a light rain was falling. The entering pair were masked with handkerchiefs.

"Hold up your hands; we want that roll," said one of them, pointing a gun at the surprised milkman.

Peabody thought he recognized them as friendly milkmen and took it they were joshing him.

"Quil you're kidding," he countered.

"There's no kidding about this fork over the roll," was the snarled reply from the gunman.

Hold-up Men Quitters

"Try and get it" said Peabody as he reached to pick up a milk bottle and rushed toward them.

With his words the gunman fired. Despite the bullet finding its mark, Peabody, a husky man of forty years, continued toward them with the milk bottle. The pair of gunmen turned and ran, Peabody chasing them across Stevens street and about one hundred yards down Victoria street. His cries of "You've killed me" woke up neighbors, many of whom immediately came to his aid. Douglas Kydd, neighboring milk dealer, reached the side of Peabody, then weak and staggering, and supported him as he walked back to the barn.

Police were notified and a car driven by Chauffeur Charles Brown and containing Lieut. Freeman and Officers Sharkey, Nelson and O'Sullivan rushed to the scene. The police car took Peabody to the hospital while the police commenced to comb the neighborhood.

Officer W. E. J. Conway, patrolling a beat in the vicinity of the scene of the crime, furnished the first clue when he said he saw a light truck with two passengers of slight build in the neighborhood earlier in the morning. He furnished the number of the truck and it was found the plates were registered in the name of Sousa. Police took him in custody shortly thereafter. The truck was found abandoned some several streets away from the Peabody home.

Has Large Family

Peabody, the wounded milk dealer, is married and has four children, Albert, Melvin, Fred, Jr., and Phyllis. Fred, Jr., is an infant. Melvin, a bright young lad of thirteen years, who had been helping his father during the summer vacation, tool charge of the milk distribution this morning and dispatched the various routes as the teams came in for their second loads. His aid was invaluable to the business, a change in help having been made within a few weeks when arrested. He was finger-printed and photographed before being placed in a cell to await arraignment.

He had $1.28 in his pockets when arrested. He was finger-printed and photographed before being placed in a cell to await arraignment.

Nearby Home Entered

The finger-prints will be used in an endeavor to link up Sousa with the entry, shortly after midnight this morning, into the home of Robert C. Potter, manager of the Merrimack Square garage, who lives at 527 Stevens street, a few blocks from the Penbody home. When Mr. Potter returned home this morning from his garage he was drinking coffee in the kitchen with his wife when he heard sounds on the cellar stairway. Going to the cellar door he saw a masked man of slight build coming lightly up the stairs. Slamming the door and telling his wife to go upstairs Mr. Potter turned the key and went outside the house in hope of getting the watchman of a street construction job there to help him in cornering the intruder. In the intervening the frightened burglar had made his way out through the window of the coal bin, which he had forced to gain entrance.

As he was being fingerprinted by Officer McCann the officer noticed the prisoner's hands were very dirty and streaked with what appeared to be coal dust. Thinking it strange a man who had supposedly just got up and completed his morning ablutions should be so dirty, he questioned Sousa who was unable to give a satisfactory explanation.

This strengthened the belief of the officers that he is the man who was in the cellar of the Potter home and escaped through the window of the coal bin. Every effort is being made to connect him with both crimes.

Taken to Cambridge

Sousa was taken to East Cambridge shortly after 1 o'clock by Commitment Officers Cawley and McCann and committed to the house of correction.

The Sun is on sale in the North Station.

Phone Operator Helps

Doctors summoned by a telephone operator, enlisted in the emergency, arrived after the man had been taken to the hospital, as did the ambulance. The three physicians aroused through the efforts of the phone operator made their way to the hospital where everything possible was done to make the suffering man comfortable.

Peabody, who never carried a gun and always had considerable cash in his possession, could give but little description of the men save that they were of slight build and appeared in the poor light to be young men.

Peabody was threatened with a coal famine today as the result of an embargo placed on coal from the Kailan mines. A coal shortage at this port would affect coastwise shipping as this is the bunkering harbor for all craft.

Moreover, the recent floods have resulted in heavy silk deposits from the Taku Bar, and should coal be cut off from dredgers working continuously on the bar, Tientsin would be shut off from navigation.

SECOND DAY OF BIG FAIR AT THE MEMORIAL AUDITORIUM

Several Additional Exhibits Brought in From Country Towns

This Forenoon—Two-Day Exhibition Will Close This Evening

All roads led once more to Memorial Auditorium today, the second and last day of the wonderful exhibition of farm and garden products conducted under the auspices of Middlesex North Agricultural Society members and their many assisting friends from many different communities in the vicinity of Lowell.

Yesterday's rain storm did not affect the initial attendance at the opening of the 1924 exhibition, and today with sunshines returning, the active committees, handling the fair and exposition of nature's finest products of the soil, were happily preparing to entertain a record-breaking crowd.

The Auditorium was opened at ten o'clock this morning. Several additional exhibits were brought in from country towns before noon, adding to the magnificence and size of the exhibition. Every fair hall was crowded with exhibits. The school children's offerings were wonderful to behold, and a complete list of the offerings from the youthful gardeners follows at the end of this article today.

The two-day exhibition closes late tonight. There will be an entertainment program in the evening, with music by an orchestra and singing by the Honey Boy quartet of this city. This afternoon, from 4 to 5, moving pictures will be given in Liberty Hall, and

Frank P. Bennett, Jr., publisher of the United States Investor and the Wool and Cotton Reporter, was the principal speaker at a well-attended meeting of the Lowell Advertising club, held at Harrisonia Manor in South Nashua last evening.

Dinner was served at 6 o'clock. President Thomas R. Atkinson called the meeting to order. A report of the outing committee was made by Chairman William Bruce and routine business was transacted.

Edward J. Conney was chairman of the day and introduced the speaker. The New England of years ago was the theme of Mr. Bennett's talk and he told of the old spirit of neighborliness which has faded into the background in recent years. He also spoke of the advantages of farm life at the present time and expressed regret at the fact that young men are leaving the farms for city life. He urged the Ad Club members to do everything in their power to assist the farmers of New England, for they are the backbone of the section.

Following Mr. Bennett's talk, dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

Theodore Theodoreff, a former Bulgarian premier, had been trying to make a living as a caricaturist before his death in Sofia recently.

AUTHORITY OF MOTOR VEHICLE REGISTRAR

(Special to The Sun)

BOSTON, Sept. 18.—That the registrar of motor vehicles has no legal right to rescind his own action in revoking the license of an operator convicted of operating while under the influence of liquor, even if such restoration is recommended by the court in which the conviction occurred, is the substance of an opinion given to William F. Williams, commissioner of public works, by Asst. Atty. Gen. Louis Goldberg, in the absence of Atty. Gen. Jay R. Stanton.

The opinion of the law officer of the commonwealth was sought because one man convicted in this state of the offense mentioned succeeded later in inducing the judge to recommend that his license be reinstated. This Frank J. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles, declined to do, on the ground that under the law he had no right to take such action.

The law provides that in case of a conviction on a charge of operating while under the influence of liquor, the license shall be revoked unless the court recommends otherwise. For a first offence, the revocation is to stand for two years; for a second or subsequent offence, for five years.

Three questions were asked of the assistant attorney-general, as follows:

(1) When a person is convicted of operating while under the influence of liquor and the court record of such conviction is sent to the registrar without a recommendation, and his license is to be restored.

He has the right to rescind action and restore the license at any time before the expiration of said license if the court submits a recommendation after the revocation?

The answer is in the negative.

(2) If the court submitted a recommendation that the license be not revoked, and the registrar refused at the time to accept such recommendation and revoked the license, would the registrar have the right to rescind his action at a later date and restore the license?

Again the answer is "no."

(3) Should the registrar decline to issue a license to a person convicted of operating under the influence of liquor—can the division of highways upon an appeal by a person aggrieved by such ruling or decision of the registrar, order said ruling of the department, modified or annulled?

To this question the assistant attorney-general gave this answer:

"No appeal may be made in cases where the registrar has no discretion as to his action. Since the registrars cases such as are described in questions 1 and 2 . . . an appeal from his refusal to issue a new license in such case will lie."

A fourth question was also asked, with reference to the action of the registrar in respect to cases where operating under the influence of liquor is alleged, and the case is eventually placed on file. The assistant attorney-general rules that such disposition of a case is to be treated as an acquittal of the defendant, and his license is to be restored.

PUTNAM HAS NO COMMENT TO MAKE

Questioned today as to the probability of his appointment by the governor to the state commission on administration and finance to succeed Homer Loring, Senator Frank B. Putnam of Lowell said he does not care to comment upon it at this time. He intimated that the announcement of Tuesday was a little premature and said that for the present he does not wish to make a statement concerning it.

BOYS ENTERTAIN WITH FISTIC ART

An unusual but very interesting entertainment was provided for members of the four local lodges of Knights of Columbus following the regular meeting last evening by John and Thomas Clancy, 7-year-old boxers. The boys, in regular ring regalia, sparred for four rounds and their work was roundly applauded by the lodge members. James Clancy, an older brother of the boxers, referred the match.

PARTY AT CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH

Despite the rain and disagreeable weather the scheduled lawn party of the Christian Endeavor society of the Calvary Baptist church which was held yesterday was both a financial and social success. Instead, however, of holding the party on the lawn behind the church, it was held in the basement of the vestry.

Candy, ice cream, fancy articles, in fact everything that is regularly associated with a lawn party, was on sale in the booths. During the evening a three reel motion picture directed by Norman R. Furniss and Earl Stevenson was shown on an improvised screen. Miss Carrie Stewart was in general charge of the affair and was assisted by the following committees:

Caterer: Miss Florence Lalline, chairman; Mrs. Benjamin Clark, Mrs. Oscar Phinney, Mrs. Albert W. Phinney, Mrs. E. L. Lalline and Miss Ethel Pierce.

Hot dogs: Ernest Craig and George Spaulding.

Grabs: Mrs. Ernest Craig, Misses Olive Grimsel, Emma Bowen and Louise Chambers.

Candy: Miss Margaret Myhe, chairman; Mrs. Charles Thurston, Misses Mollie Hanlon and Ruth Munson.

Ice cream: Edmund Lawson and Ralph Johnson.

HER SLAVERY ENDED

BUSINESS OUTLOOK IMPROVING

The iron and steel industry which usually leads the way for practically all other business activities is slowly but steadily climbing back toward full time operation. This may not be apparent in the metal trades around Lowell or in New England, but it is true, nevertheless.

The gain in pig-iron production in August was only 6 per cent over the July output but that was the first check to the drop that started late in March. With the national election out of the way and uncertainty and pessimism in a measure overcome, times may take a sudden boom. The iron and steel industry quite often leaps upward with amazing speed from the midst of depression. In August 1922 the pig-iron output had dropped to 1,816,170 tons. In four months it had increased to 3,000,000 tons. Such a sudden upward turn may occur again, not only in iron and steel but in general business.

Frederick H. Curtiss, chairman of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston gives a very optimistic view of industrial conditions in the New England district. He says the improvement in July and August was moderate; but it was nevertheless, distinctly noticeable, coming as it did when activity was comparatively low. The improvement has been accompanied by a commodity price stabilization which is a good omen for the future. Production has increased in the textile industries of New England. New England mills consumed more cotton in July than in June, while the mills in the cotton growing states of the south consumed less in July than in June. Last year New England woolen mills were quieter in July than in June; but this year they increased the consumption of wool in July about 5 per cent. The Bureau of Labor Statistics at Washington, points out that in August the textile industries reversed the drop of 7.1 per cent in employment noted in July, making its gain 1.7 a net advance of 5.4 per cent. That increase, if maintained, would soon count for something like normal business. There is no doubt that the cotton mills have been hit hard and they have done the best they could to weather the gale.

It is freely admitted that no general resumption of industrial activity can be expected until after election; but these facts must have due weight; the steel industry is on the upgrade, so is the textile industry and the settlement in Europe should have its effect in stimulating American business. The farmer is in better shape. His buying power is now being gradually restored. Business failures are becoming less numerous and railroad freight loading has been running the highest of the year to date. All these are indications of an upper tendency in business and better times ahead.

History shows that depressions follow great wars. After the Civil war came a boom followed by depression in which prices dropped. Then came another boom and prices went up though not quite as high as before, only to be followed by another sag in prices and final recovery and stabilization. We have had an experience practically similar following the great World war; and we have not as yet got back to solid ground. The stage is now set for an upward turn and in all probability an early restoration of normal conditions.

GREAT OVATION FOR DAVIS

Thus far in the campaign, the most wonderful ovation yet tendered any candidate was the great demonstration at Bunceton, Mo., on the farm of Dr. A. A. Nelson, democratic candidate for governor, in honor of John W. Davis. The attendance was estimated at from 40,000 to 50,000 and the vast assembly showed the wildest enthusiasm for Davis as his stirring address was carried to the entire multitude by a loud speaking apparatus. No wonder that on such an occasion Mr. Davis delivered one of the greatest speeches he has made since the campaign opened. In explaining the difference between the democratic and republican parties, Mr. Davis laid down the principle that in every country where popular government has existed, there have been two conflicting theories of government, its functions and its duties. In the early days they had their two protagonists in this country in Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton. The latter believed that the function of government was the peculiar prerogative of the rich, the well born, the able and the wealthy.

On the contrary, Jefferson, the author of the Declaration of Independence, believed that all men are equal before the law, that all have equal rights and privileges. These contradictory political beliefs we see in our own day represented in the republican and democratic parties, respectively, one holding that it is the duty of the government to provide special privilege for the selected few, and that if these are well provided for, the indirect benefits will filter down in sufficient measure to the masses.

On the contrary, the democratic or Jeffersonian policy is equal rights for all and special privileges to none. On this definition of the distinction between the two major parties, Mr. Davis built his address. In 1920 the people were told that the government would be placed in charge of the best minds in the country, but as Mr. Davis demonstrated by graphic illustrations, the republican party had betrayed the public trust, had broken its pledges and allowed corruption to run riot at Washington.

Questions of vital interest to the farmers, the tariff, taxation, freight rates, domestic and foreign markets were all ably dealt with by Mr. Davis and his attitude on each and all was loudly applauded by the vast audience.

One other subject which the candidate introduced was the question of equality in politics for the women. He felt the time had arrived when men and women as citizens should work together for common ends and the best interests of all the people.

Perhaps Mr. Davis made his greatest hits in his exposition of the tariff imports which put up the price of what the farmer had to buy and tended to keep down the price of what he had to sell. His criticism of President Coolidge for delay in dealing with the corrupt officials at Washington, particularly Secretary Daugherty of the department of justice, seemed to meet with general approval as did his incisive exposure of corruption.

This great demonstration has raised the hopes of the democrats in the middle west and it can safely be said that those who think that the democratic standard-bearer has not made a deep impression wherever he has gone will discover their mistake when the votes are counted.

A Thought
Beware what spirit rages in your breast; for one inspired, ten thousand are possessed.—Roscommon.

Obeying Orders
He was looking very careworn. To a friend he confided. "I've got to go abroad. A horrible nuisance at the present time." "Well, I wouldn't neglect your doctor's orders," said his friend. "O, it wasn't a doctor," said the other. "It was my divorce lawyer."

No Hard Feelings
"I would like to return this engagement ring I purchased a few days ago," said the dejected youth. " Didn't it suit the young lady?" asked the jeweler. "Yes, but another young man had already given her one just like it, and I would like to exchange it for a wedding present."

The Harvest Bell
In many places in England, where modern agricultural reaping machinery is not used, the gleaner's bell may be still heard in harvest days. The bell通知s the village folk that they may begin to glean the fields, being rung from the church tower as soon as harvesting is sufficiently advanced for gleaners to be permissible.

Caught in the Act
One of the best of the many broadcasting stories that are floating about now was told recently at a social gathering by Mrs. Winston Churchill. The speaker and her host boy were seated close together on the sofa, listening in from the first time with the latter's new wireless set. Nor did the fact that both of them were wearing their head phones prevent them from snatching an occasional kiss. Just as they were in the middle of our particularly long embrace came the title of the next song, "Take Those Lips Away." "O, George!" gasped the girl, as she draw back blushing. "O, George! They can see us!"

Good "Ant" Stories
The California truth-teller was in form "Talking of ants," he said, "we've got 'em as big as crabs on west. I've seen 'em fight with long horns, which they use as lances, charging each other like savages." They don't compare with the ants I saw in the Far east," said an inoffensive individual near by. "The natives have trained them as beasts of burden. One of 'em could trail a ton load for miles with ease. They worked willingly, but occasionally they turned on their attendants and killed them." But this was drawing the long bow a little too far. "I say, old chap," said a shocked voice from the corner, "what sort of ants were they?" Elephants," replied the inoffensive individual.

Stunner for Dad
Old Johnson had realized the dream of his life and taken his only son into partnership in the business he had worked up himself. There was great pride in the old man's heart the first day they were installed in the office together, and he was looking forward to the projects they would work out and how the young blood would stimulate the firm. As time passed, however, all did not work as old Johnson had expected, and the younger's overbearing manner annoyed him considerably. "Look here, young man, we're in one morning, let's have less of the 'I' and more of the 'we' in this business. Remember I'm still here and that you're only junior partner." The young man seemed impressed, and the father thought his words had struck home. A few days later, however, his son appeared, looking a trifle anxious. "Say, dad, we've done it now," he remarked. "Done what?" "Well—er—we've married the typist!"

Out of Eternity;
This new day is born;
At night will return.

Behold! it aforesome

So soon it for ever
From all eyes is bid.

Hore hath been dawning

Think, wilt thou let it

MAN ABOUT TOWN

The article on New England, a vacation paradise, published Wednesday evening in The Sun brought to my mind the many trips I have made to this so-called paradise of natural scenery. Only last week I had the pleasure of seeing the Flume after a two days' storm. The numerous waterfalls were dashed down the rocky miniature Niagara with great force. It was a grand sight which was duly appreciated by hundreds of travelers, many of whom had cameras of all sizes focused for pictures. We were compensated for our weary rainy night. The foliage had been slow in turning this year and very little coloring is seen as yet. However, one night last week I saw a beautiful double rainbow hanging low over the mountain top and coloring all the trees a beautiful pale green and red. It was observed by many people at the Mountain Park House and also by many of the studio people at North Woodstock. It was considered a phenomenal sight by old settlers.

Since the receipt by the board of health of a letter from City Councilor Joseph A. N. Chretien urging consideration for Mrs. Forster H. Smith, superintendent of nurses at the Isolation hospital, other councillors have expressed similar feelings and plan to send communications to the board asking that her compensation be not changed in any process of hospital reorganization. These councillors, like Councilor Chretien, feel that Mrs. Smith has been of great value to the administration of the institution and has more than earned for herself and saved for the city the salary paid her. They also point out that her salary was established and fixed by the salaried commission of 1922 and approved by the council in special session and therefore, should not be taken away. Prior to 1922 Mrs. Smith had worked three years without salary.

The New England committee gives out the following "helps" to would-be good New Englanders. Don't knock New England, her people or her products. Boost New England. New England institutions, New Englanders and New England products. Get acquainted with New England products. "To know New England products is to want New England products." Buy New England goods where the value is as good or better than the same kind of goods made elsewhere. Be ready to discourage all New England knockers. Say to yourself "I am a New Englander—proud of it—and will be still prouder of it when all New Englanders are boasting together for New England. I will, therefore, uphold and promote New England co-operation and New England interests."

Motorists who insist on violating the city ordinance prohibiting parking in restricted areas for a designated time are being made aware of the breach of the law by Traffic Officer John T. Whalen, who has been on the job for the past few days "tagging" delinquent cars. The officer has kept an eye on machines parked in Central, Prescott and Merrimack street and has politely "tagged" those failing to abide by the ordinance. Bankers, business men and peddlers have received the same treatment, and the traffic guardian says he intends to pursue the method until the offenders learn to do the right thing.

Of especial interest to local radio fans is the announcement of the university extension branch of the state department of education that a course in radio reception and transmission to be conducted here. The course will be held at the Lowell Textile school, beginning Friday evening, Oct. 17, at 7.15 o'clock. The course includes a discussion of the construction, installation and operation of the essential parts of radio apparatus, both for transmission and reception. A feature of the work will be a study of the latest approved circuits as well as common radio troubles and remedies.

The displays of New England made goods seen to advantage in the local down-town stores are very interesting. One store has a window devoted to various cotton cloths woven by the Lowell mills, while another shows velvets, corduroys and fustians, woven by a local concern. Another mark of trade displays the various brands of boscawen made locally. Store managers in general have profited largely from their exhibition of local goods and find customers anxious to purchase Lowell and

MATRIMONIAL

A wedding of interest locally took place last evening at St. Peter's rectory when Miss Mary D. Sweeney and Mr. Percy Tothaker were united in the bonds of matrimony by Rev. Francis J. Shea. The bride wore a gown of powder blue canton crepe with hat to match and carried bridal roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Frances Sweeney, who wore white canton crepe with picture hat to match and carried orange roses.

Mr. Stanley Tothaker, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man. The usher, who was to have attended, was an amateur and while the bridegroom's favor to his attendant was a ruby ring, Mr. and Mrs. Tothaker left on an extended automobile trip to Maine and upon their return they will make their home in this city.

Tothaker—Raney

Mr. Harry C. Dickerson and Miss Laura M. Raney were united in marriage Monday afternoon at the rectory of St. Michael's church by Rev. James Lynch. Mr. William McCabe and Miss Angela M. Raney, sister of the bride, attended the couple. The bride wore gown of white canton crepe, trimmed with point lace. Her veil was held in place with tilles of the valley and she carried a silk bouquet of Killarney roses and tilles of the valley. The bridegroom wore yellow crest, Roman, with but of gold lace. Concile—Daniels
A pretty autumn wedding and one of interest in social and fraternal circles, both locally and in Tyngsboro, was solemnized last evening when Mr. Charles Dodge Coffin of Tyngsboro and Miss Marion Daniels of this city were married at the home of the bride's parents in Norcross street by Rev. Charles E. Eaton of Milton, uncle of the bride. Mr. David F. Daniels, sister of the bride, and Mr. A. Raymond Coffin of this city, brother of the bridegroom, attended the couple as matron of honor and best man respectively. The bride wore a beautiful gown of white Canton crepe, profuse with tilles of the valley, up with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and tilles of the valley. The matron of honor wore orchid georgette with orange lace and carried Columbia roses. The Misses Ruth and Olive Johnson of Peabody, cousins of the bride, were the flower girls. They wore pink georgette and carried baskets of Columbia roses. Phyllis Currier of Tyngsboro, niece of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. She wore blue georgette.

The house was prettily arranged for the occasion and resembled a veritable bower of roses and evergreens. Mrs. J. MacDurnie sister of the groom, played the wedding march. Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served by a caterer assisted by the Misses Marion Vasselin, Dorothy Billson and Mildred Stevens of North Chelmsford and the Misses Olga Emborg and Alice Stavely of this city, friends of the bride. The ushers were the Messrs. David F. Caldeff, Raymond McKittrick and Fred E. Daniels, all of this city, and Mr. James MacBurnie of North Chelmsford. The gift of the bride to the bridegroom was a smoking set; to the matron of honor, a silver mesh bag; and to the flower girls and ring bearer, green gold bracelets. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a green gold bracelet set with sapphires while his favors to the ushers were green gold stick pins.

The best man received a brief pipe.

Mr. and Mrs. Coffin will make their home at the North Square apartments, Suite 3, Chelmsford Center, where they will be at home after Dec. 1.

Second Day of Big Fair

also again this evening. Every show is well worth attending, and the admission to everything is free.

All products from gardens and home kitchens exhibited at the fair, will be given to the city's poor by the management. It is expected that many hundreds of unfortunate men, women and children of the city at large will receive benefit in the shape of market garden products for home dining tables, as a result of this year's highly successful affair conducted for the first time in the main auditorium of the Memorial building on East Merrimack street.

Wonderful School Exhibits

One of the real wonders of the 1924 exhibition of Middlesex county products of the soil in the Auditorium, is the remarkable display in lavish form of many beautiful examples of school gardening, the exhibits of striking quality and attractiveness being displayed by enthusiastic pupils of Lowell elementary schools.

Miss Alice T. Lee, school garden supervisor, had charge of the wonderful exhibit, and was assisted in arranging the Auditorium displays by Miss Margaret Marron, Miss Margaret MacDonald, Miss Rose Dowd, Miss Christine Kane, Miss Esther Cooney, Miss Katherine Thomas and Miss Frances Grant.

From the different schools where children raise flowers and vegetables like professional market gardeners, came a host of offerings, gleaned from the plants and soil by boys and girls of tender years, and brought joyously by the armful through the thoroughfares of the city, straight to the Memorial Auditorium.

The school children fairly streamed into the Auditorium in the morning and afternoon, yesterday, many of them with wonderful bouquets of flowers of many assorted varieties, summer and fall bearings. Greenhalge school pupils were among the first to arrive, with an artistic and extremely novel display of dahlias, Ernest Chard, a pupil of the school, bringing the floral offering. Miss Margaret Marron, president of the Parent Teacher association, won in the Auditorium competition, and assisted Miss Agnes Dudley.

The gift of the bride to the bridegroom was a smoking set; to the matron of honor, a silver mesh bag; and to the flower girls and ring bearer, green gold bracelets. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a green gold bracelet set with sapphires while his favors to the ushers were green gold stick pins. The best man received a brief pipe. Mr. and Mrs. Coffin will make their home at the North Square apartments, Suite 3, Chelmsford Center, where they will be at home after Dec. 1.

Riverside school's excellent exhibit was arranged by Miss Irving, and it was unique in that cabbages and mense red cabbage placed in the center carrots were exhibited, among ter of the Greenhalge exhibit of fruits other fine garden products. One cabbage weighed 42 pounds, raised by Andrew Jones, and the white carrots won first prize. Tomatoes and golden wax beans were also exhibited. Every room in Riverside school exhibited some special feature in garden products.

Butler school exhibited a huge basket overflowing with luscious fruit and vegetables. It stood out pre-minent in the long line of garden displays. Dahlias and zinnias of variegated hues enveloped the entire background. There were also numerous gladioli exhibited by Butler school children.

Flowers sent to the exhibition by pupils of Cabot street school included asters and zinnias. From the C. W. Morey school, there was a novel feature, exhibiting the "Home of Plenty." The offerings included summer squash and an abundance of flowers, fruits and vegetables. Miss Margaret Marron was in charge of the splendid exhibit.

Middlesex Village school pupils have a fine garden-tilling record. Nearly every child in this school has a garden of his own, and all were eager to exhibit at the auditorium show. One boy, anxious to become a florist, gave a wonderful display from his own carefully tended flower garden. He specializes in gladioli and asters. Mr. Driscoll and Mrs. Keleher, with their school principal, Margaret F. Wakefield, were very happy, apparently, when they arranged this display. Another Middlesex Village school boy planted half a pint of beans supplied by the Allen Seed company, who generously sent to school Garden Supervisor Miss Lee a supply for school pupils. The boy reported harvesting a bushel and one half of beans.

Numerous school gardens flourishing this year in children's home grounds, were made possible by generosity of Congressman John Jacob Rogers, who sent to the garden supervisors a large number of different kinds of seeds, ranging from vegetables and herbs; to plants and flowers. A host of gardens produced remarkable results from the free seeds supplied by the Lowell congressman, and the school garden leaders are very grateful for the aid rendered in consummation of their programs in behalf of the school children.

Greenhalge school children's special exhibit at the auditorium was arranged by Miss Agnes Dudley, assisted by Mrs. Romeo St. Armand, leader of the school garden club; Charles Noonan, Leo Habert and Lester Lawrence, had charge of the offerings. The prize squash of the fair was found in this wonderful exhibit.

Riverside school's excellent exhibit was arranged by Miss Irving, and it was unique in that cabbages and mense red cabbage placed in the center carrots were exhibited, among ter of the Greenhalge exhibit of fruits vegetables and flowers, and this is flanked on one side by a crate of potatoes and on the other by a crate of apples. The school children also brought to their special table cucumbers, squash, beets, carrots, onions, tomatoes, pumpkins and turnips. They were surrounded by large bouquets of flowers in the background, was the attractive Greenhalge banner.

Other attractive exhibits were arranged and displayed by Washington, Pawtucket, Abraham, Lincoln, Edison, Bartlett and Colburn schools. In the primary division, there were offerings by pupils of Pine street, Dover street, Laura Lee, London street, Carter street, Lyon street, Tenth street, Lakeview avenue, Cabot street, Cross street and Sycamore street schools.

Some Facts Concerning Lowell's Early Plans for Street Development

Interesting Details Concerning Pawtucket Boulevard and Old Durkee House

In days of old when Lowell seriously took up the work of developing plans for better streets and highway connections with towns adjoining the fast-growing municipality on the Merrimack, attention was drawn very naturally to the so-called "river roads."

Mandemized thoroughfares were not part of the Spindle City's transportation scheme of things in the long ago. River roads were popular, but no outward sums of the taxpayers' money were spent upon extensive road-building programs in Lowell's earlier history. And the "river roads" were rarely "mined" by travelers up and down both sides of the Merrimack stream, for the river used to contain more water some 50 years ago, and the overflows in the spring of the year when the freshets came, covered many miles of the "river roads" and left the marks of the water ravages. A spring freshet was a very ordinary thing indeed in those days, and not a subject for sensational discussions.

The years came and departed in the usual way, until along in the '80s, the city fathers, at the suggestion of reputable Lowell citizens affiliated, of course, with the rapidly-developing textile industries, finally agreed to study a proposition calling for the construction of a highway along the Merrimack river bank, to be known as "The Pawtucket Boulevard."

The proposition was not a new one.

but it was not until the year 1889 that public sentiment in Lowell and Dracut became thoroughly aroused and enthusiasm for the project crystallized, that the vigorous civic leaders in the movement for a river boulevard traffic thoroughfare made an immediate step forward and "started the ball a-rolling."

Some Interesting Details

Interesting details of the first formal inspection trip made by Lowell citizens to the site of the Pawtucket boulevard project, are now in possession of Mr. Joseph M. Wilson, No. 22 Seventh avenue, Pawtucketville. Mr. Wilson is an established authority on affairs historical covering old-time Dracut and environs, his delving into records of the long ago bringing to light much valuable genealogical information and facts relating to ancient history in the Pawtucketville section of Lowell.

Mr. Wilson has uncovered an interesting newspaper account of the first inspection of the site of the proposed Pawtucket boulevard, which took place in the year 1888. The story is not particularly ancient, as it relates to Lowell familiars of nineteenth century days, yet it tells with much detail the reasons for the formal journey to the banks of the Merrimack river in Pawtucketville, and what happened during that memorable trip. The faded clipping reads as follows:

"Two of Charles H. Hanson's large barges carried a good representation of the members of the city government and other citizens to an inspection of the proposed Pawtucket boulevard site, yesterday afternoon. Many others availed themselves of private conveyances to the same end. Of the party, the following officials joined in the inspection:

"Aldermen Holden, Putnam and Seutter; Councilmen Johnson of Ward 1; Clear, Bruneau and Sherwood of Ward 2; Sparks and Johnson of Ward 3; Cheney, Watch, Green and Hall of Ward 4; Blood, Jimmell, Lord and Thompson of Ward 5; Lawrence of Ward 6; Representatives Garvey and Carter; City Treasurer Chase; Superintendent Wright of the city water works; Chief Engineer Hosmer; Superintendent Beals of the street department.

"Major Henry Emery, Levi Spangler, ex-Alderman Runels, Charles D. Starbird, Frank J. Feeney of "The Spirit of the Times," and other well known citizens also rode over the grounds.

"The fences and walls have been taken down and a small stream near the entrance has been bridged so as to allow teams to go over the whole course. A large portion of those who made this inspection had not before seen the premises, and all expressed themselves as much pleased with the location as a site for the project.

"The street will be two miles in length and will be 150 feet wide from the water's edge. At the end of the road a 50-foot wide street will connect it with Varnum avenue.

"After driving over the boulevard site, the party was driven to a point above the Forest house, where there is a large gravel bank that could be used by the city if it were found necessary in building the road.

The Old Durkee House

"The party was then driven to the old Major Durkee house, formerly the Blood estate, where Page & Nunn had prepared a tempting collation. This old house is by far the oldest building in this part of the country. It is claimed to be 230 years old (sic; in 1880), having been built a few years after Boston was founded.

"The old relic was thoroughly inspected, and its old-fashioned chimney and ancient fireplaces, its windows with small panes of glass, its dry-well system of drainage, etc., were all thoroughly examined.

"Councilman Blood was one of the party and told some anecdotes about the old building, one room of which is partitioned off as a dinner hall, and an elevated stage is still there where musicians of yore fiddled out their music while the inhabitants for miles around gathered to take part in the country dance.

"Councilman Blood's grandfather was born in this house, and died there at the age of 95 years, having lived his whole life there. After the house had been thoroughly examined and the good things provided by Page & Nunn had been sampled very liberally, the party returned to the city, all favorably impressed with the new street."

CASES IN THE CAMBRIDGE COURT

Charged with having given insufficient measure in selling cinders to the town of Dracut, Claude J. Harvey of that town was called in superior court East Cambridge yesterday, but failed to appear. A capias was issued for his arrest.

Joseph A. Norkunas of Lowell pleaded not guilty to a charge of larceny and was held in $200 bonds for trial. He is alleged to have stolen $100 from Margarette Kavallanski.

GENE SARAZEN IS DETHRONED

New York Golfer Eliminated In Championship Contest by Larry Nabholz

Sturdy Lima, Ohio, Golfer Outplayed the Champion Much of the Way

FRENCH LICK, Ind., Sept. 15 (By the Associated Press)—There will be a new champion of the national professional golfers this year, for Gene Sarazen, of New York, who has held the title for two years, was dethroned in the second round of match play in the championship contest at French Lick Springs course today by a young professional from Lima, O., Larry Nabholz, a sturdy golfer who outplayed the champion much of the way.

Another surprise of the day was the spectacular defeat of Bob Cruckshank of New York, once runner-up for the national open title to Bobby Jones. Cruckshank had shot splendid golf all during the tournament, and today had led his opponent Ray Derr, of Philadelphia, all the way finally gaining an advantage of four up and five to play. It was then that the tall youth from the Quaker City finally asserted himself with brilliance after having held on doggedly for 31 holes. Derr reeled off a birdie four and four threes in a row, one of the threes being an eagle and two birds to square the match on the 36th green.

Going into the extra hole, both played well to the green and it looked like a half in par four until Derr, evidently perturbed by the terrific change in his fortunes, missed a short putt and the match.

STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Stock prices responded at the opening of today's market to a renewal of speculative operations. American Can, United States Steel, Studebaker and Baldwin eclipsed yesterday's high levels, leading a varied assortment of popular industrials upward. American Tobacco rose two points and Laclede Gas light 2½.

Heavy buying was concentrated in industrial specialists in the first half-hour, with a number of shares evidently reflecting a resumption of pool operations. Motor and accessory stocks were benefited by large scale purchases of the market leaders. General Electric, Standard-Warren, American Express, International Paper, Associated Dry Goods and American Tobacco. Foreign exchanges opened steady.

Speculative sentiment continued bullish throughout the morning, with some strength appearing in volume. While gains in many popular issues, utility shares, Federal Light & Power, and Schulte Tobacco advanced more than 2 points each, and gains of one to two points were scored by Goodrich, Cannon and preferred, United States National, General Electric, Standard-Warren, American Express, International Paper, Associated Dry Goods and American Tobacco. NEW COACH NAMED TODAY FOR HIGH SCHOOL FOOTBALL

Al Pierotti, Everett High, Washington and Lee University and Professional Gridiron Star Signs Contract As Assistant to Head Coach James Liston for 1924 Season

Al Pierotti of Everett, former All-American centre, coach at the University of Washington and for several seasons in Wisconsin with Jim Thorpe's famous Clinton Bulldogs in the professional ranks, went to work here this afternoon as assistant coach of the Lowell high school football team. He was engaged by school authorities this noon for a period of ten weeks and with Coach James Liston will work out the local school's gridiron destiny this fall.

The engagement of Pierotti ought to be a ten-strike in high school football history. He is one of the outstanding football men of the country during the past decade and in every way is well equipped to coach either high school or college elevens. He has been under consideration by the local school officials for several weeks and came to the city yesterday to talk over the situation and meet school committee members and others interested. His engagement was clinched at a second meeting this noon and he at once went into action at Alumni field.

With the largest football squad out in the history of the school and with interest at a higher pitch than ever before, this year's school team ought to develop into a consistent winner, something which has been lacking for some time. Faculty Manager James F. Conway said today there are 80 boys out for the team and every one of them is properly equipped. Nothing is being overlooked to make the 1924 eleven creditable one and Pierotti's acquisition

The Bone and Sinew

The readers of THE SUN are the bone and sinew of Lowell. They are practically all Lowell people who have helped to make the city what it is.

They earn their living in Lowell; they spend their money in Lowell; they are the main support of the Lowell merchants.

SUN readers are not in the habit of running to Boston for their supplies. They trade at home.

They are the largest body of newspaper readers in the city, and few of them read any other paper because they don't need to.

There is only one way for the merchant to reach this large, thrifty, industrious and intelligent body of readers, and that is through the columns of THE SUN.

around the South common, down Gorham street to Central street, thence to Kearney square, then over Merrimack street to Pawtucket st. over Pawtucket street to the bridge over the Merrimack river, thence over Varum avenue and the river boulevard to Willow Dale.

The gay procession of the fish and game enthusiasts attracted much attention and many citizens lining the down-town sidewalks, gave them a noisy send-off. A bugler led the sportsmen's touring party.

All members went to the park by auto. Dinner was served promptly in the big cabin at the park, chicken and turkey being the main delicacies in the line of substantial nourishment.

After-dinner exercises were scheduled to start before the sports program, and numerous speakers were invited to address the assemblage. Congressman John Jacob Rogers was an invited guest, and Commissioner William C. Adams, of the fish and game conservation department of Massachusetts, was also an invited guest and speaker.

The program of afternoon sports included trap-shooting, butt-shooting, running races, quoits, pillow fights, sup races, boat races, potato races and putting the shot. An English drag hunt was the biggest card of the day. Groton fox-hounds of the fancy-breeding type, being present to give a professional performance around the shore of Lake Memphremagog. Prizes were donated for the various events by members and friends of the association. These prizes were awarded to members only.

Today's celebration was conducted under the management of Chairman William C. Purcell and Secretary Frederick W. Barrows.

RELIEF FROM DYSPEPSIA

All conditions of depressed vitality tend to disturb the process of digestion. There is not a disturbed condition of life that may not affect digestion.

Few causes of indigestion are so common as thin, weak blood. It affects directly and at once the great processes of nutrition. Not only is the action of the gastric and intestinal glands diminished, but the muscular action of the stomach is weakened. Nothing will more promptly restore the digestive efficiency than good red blood. Without it the normal activity of the stomach is impossible.

Thin, pale people who complain of indigestion must improve the condition of their blood to find relief. The most active blood-builder in such cases is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They make rich, red blood which quickly restores the digestive organs to their proper activity and the first result is hunger. The dyspeptic who has hated the sight and smell of food now looks forward to meal time with pleasurable anticipation. Care now in the selection and quality of food will put the patient well on the road to health. A diet book, "What to Eat and How to Eat," will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y. All druggists sell Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.—Adv.

NATIONAL LEAGUE PENNANT MAY BE WON OR LOST TODAY

GIANTS, ROBINS AND PIRATES PLAY DOUBLE-HEADERS TODAY

Outcome of Today's Battles Will Have Important Bearing on Pennant—Yankees and Senators Again Tied For Leadership In American League

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—With the Giants, Robins and Pirates playing double headers, the National league pennant may be won or lost today.

By winning twice while Brooklyn and Pittsburgh won twice, the Giants would increase their lead over the former to three and one-half contests and over the latter to four and one-half—an apparently safe margin with an average of ten games left for each club to play.

But, by losing two while their rivals won a brace, New York would fall a half game, leaving Brooklyn to set up a race, only a half contest ahead of the Pirates and into a battle royal which might go on into the closing minutes of the season.

Either Pittsburgh or Brooklyn would virtually fall out of the race by losing two, if the others won twice.

In the meantime, Washington and New York are putting on a sustained wrestling match which the team with the last ounce of strength seems destined to win.

The Yankees, by winning twice from the Browns yesterday while Washington beat Cleveland once again tied for first place.

The struggles at the Polo grounds will find McGinnis' heroics of southward, the veteran Neft and the youthful Bentley—opposed to Rixey and Luque of the Reds.

At Brooklyn Manager Robinson will send the eminent Dazzy Vance in quest of his 16th straight victory.

Bill Doak will be the second Robin

THE LOWELL JUNIOR TWILIGHT LEAGUE

St. Joseph's Cadets have successfully held to the coveted position of first place in the Lowell Junior Twilight League. Taking the lead in the early days of the season, they have been consistent winners except in two isolated instances and are now ending the season with eight of ten games played as victories. Their standing ranks as .800. As leaders of the league, the Cadets have gained the league pennant and the silver trophy cup presented by the league president, Willis J. Peltier, the Merrimack street jeweler. Mr. Peltier also donated a gold Waltham watch to the man who made the final game has the best hitting average of the league. One more game is scheduled between the Emeralds and the Pawtucket Blues; until then the winner of the watch will not be decided.

Much of the success of the Cadets is due to the ability and management of "Bucky" Richards, team manager, and "Pet" Richard, the local twirler of the league. However, entire credit can not be attributed to any one or two men because at all times the team worked with the perfect co-ordination that is so necessary for a baseball championship team. Givivan, Fadden, Paudler, playing first, second and catcher respectively, were also important factors in the team's successes.

BUTLERS OUT FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP

The Butler A.A. Seconds, one of the strongest semi-pro teams to be represented on the gridiron last fall, wish to tell the world that this year's aggregation is to be even bigger and better.

The Butlers are out for the championship and wish to state that they will aspire to such honors.

Practice will be held Thursday night of this week, and every former member is urged to attend, as a manager and captain will be elected. The Butlers are barring no-one from a try-out, so those desirous of a chance need only report to our present captain (Dad) Sheehan on said night at Butler park.

WERE PUT THROUGH STIFF WORKOUT

Coach Eddie Cawley of the Lowell Tech school football squad put the candidates through a stiff workout on the campus yesterday afternoon. While Cawley was paying his attention to the backfield aspirants, Ernie Perry, his assistant, concerned himself with the linemen.

As only 10 days more remain before the opening game with Bates, the coaches intend to keep the players on edge. Punting, faking on the ball, and dummy tackling constituted yesterday's program and the menu was continued this afternoon.

Boyle had trained especially to meet Julian, but as Flanagan is also of the fighting type he feels he can accommodate his style to that of the whaler.

The winner of the bout has been promised a match with Julian, probably next week. If the latter is in condition, the bout will be a draw.

The other bouts on tonight's card look good. The semi-final ought to be a hummer. Nick Flanagan, the Lexington infinite man, and Jack O'Brien of Lawrence are listed to perform for their third time. Their previous bouts were humdingers.

Tommy Tunney, the referee of the contest, said that if he had been permitted to give a decision, he would have declared the contest a draw. The newspaper experts, however, even those from Pittsburgh, were of the opinion that Tunney had the shade.

Tunney's record is 10 wins, 10 losses.

Flanagan is well known here, where he defeated George Brooks in a sensational null a few years ago. But he has added considerably to his record since that time. He claims a victory over George Red Lee, who now holds the National Island lightweight title.

Flanagan and Boyle in Main Event — Madoona and O'Brien in Semi-Final

Phinney Boyle of Lowell and Tom Flanagan of New Bedford, who met in the main event of the Moody club card in Crescent Park tonight are in splendid condition, according to word received from the rival champs today. The withdrawal of Tony Julian from the match, as announced yesterday because of an injury while training, caused some disappointment, but the matchmaker feels he was extremely fortunate to be able to secure Flanagan, and expressed confidence that the substitution, like the few he was obliged to make last season, will prove satisfactory.

Flanagan is well known here, where he defeated George Brooks in a sensational null a few years ago. But he has added considerably to his record since that time. He claims a victory over George Red Lee, who now holds the National Island lightweight title.

MAY HOLD SPECIAL WARD ELECTION

A special election in Ward 6 will be necessary, in the opinion of the election commissioners, if Ward Councilor Daniel Moriarty is elected representative in the state election and resigns his office as councilor, as he stated yesterday that he would do.

The Plan B charter provides in section 26 for the filling of vacancies in the council as follows: "If a vacancy occurs in the . . . city council before the last six months of the term of office, the city council shall order an election for a member of the council to serve for the unexpired term."

If a special election is ordered, it will be the first time in the memory of the election commissioners that a special ward election was ever held, and a record number of elections for one year will be established, as five regular elections will be held here during the year. On several previous occasions there have been five elections in one year but it is not believed that six were ever held here in one year.

SOVIET TROOPS KILL GEORGIAN CHURCHMAN

PARIS, Sept. 18. (By the Associated Press.)—The Georgian legation in Paris, which is receiving reports of the revolutionary movement against the soviet regime in the republic of Georgia, announced today that the Georgian metropolitan Nazari had been executed at Kutaisi by Russian soviet troops. The churchman, the legation declared, was 60 years of age and ill. An announcement from the legation on the military features of the revolutionary movement, said:

"Armored trains, tanks and airplanes are continuing to arrive in Georgia from Russia. The Bolsheviks are masters of the main railroad line from Batumi Bay to the cities and towns the line crosses."

"Georgian regiments now are taking an active part in the insurrection. The insurgents and the majority of

AUTO CRASHED INTO TELEGRAPH POLE

An automobile driven by Donald G. Roby of Manchester, N. H., crashed into a telegraph pole in North Billerica yesterday afternoon, causing slight injuries to Roby and his wife, who was riding with him. After the couple had been treated in the town hall by Dr. Marshall, Roby was taken to the Lowell police station by Chief Livingston of the Billerica police, and was booked on charges of drunkenness and operating an automobile while he was under the influence of liquor. He pleaded not guilty in district court this morning and was bailed in $400 for his appearance on Sept. 25.

LOWELL FISHERMEN HAVE GOOD LUCK

Eight Lowell business and professional men went on a fishing excursion yesterday and caught more than three hundred pounds of fish. In the party were Dr. Francis S. Caldicott, Dr. Napoleon Provencher, Dr. Rufus Long, Dr. Frederick E. Morris, Guy Roberts, Samuel Renaud, Charles Barton, George Hooley and Walter Sanborn. They left Lowell at 8 a. m. and went by automobile directly to Manchester-by-the-Sea where a large sail boat was secured and all embarked for deep sea fishing.

Dr. Caldicott captured the largest fish of the day when he pulled a five-foot, 38-pound blue fish over the side of the boat. The nearest approach to Dr. Caldicott's record was made by Charles Barton who claims he hooked a much larger fish than the doctor, but it got away.

Under the amended rules for football, which were made public but a few days ago, it is possible that a number of "trick" formations may be used that were not possible under last year's rules. Candidates for the squad, said today they believed it is to teach a number of these new plays to men who will most likely make up the eleven which will compete with Nashua on the 27th that Coach Liston is planning the secret session.

Sub-Master James F. Conway, in charge of school athletics, admitted that secret practice was being arranged for but he was non-committal in regard to the place or time.

MOST PITIFUL SIGHT IN LIFE

Is a Man or Woman Who Has No "Will-Power" as a Result of Nerve Force Exhaustion

All the physical suffering which may be caused by nervous irritability, headaches, backaches, indigestion, heart palpitation, etc., as a result of nerve force exhaustion, are nothing as compared with its awful effects upon the mind and "will power."

The most pitiful sight in life is a man or woman who has "no will"—who has noble impulses and desires but not enough "will power" to carry them through. The memory also fails, the judgment is bad and everything therefore seems to go wrong.

In such cases, do not take mere stimulating medicines nor narcotic drugs (which only further injure your delicate nervous system), but what you need is something to put more nerve forces into your nerves and more iron into your blood to help make new nerve force with which to starve starving nerve cells. This is most effectively accomplished by the free use of Nuxated Iron. This valuable product contains the principal chemical constituent of active living nerve force in a form which most resembles that in the brain and nerve cells of man. It also contains strength-giving organic iron, for the blood, and therefore he said to help both in blood and a nerve food. Millions of people are using it. Satisfactory results are guaranteed to every purchaser or the manufacturers will refund your money. Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "Nuxated" on every package. Sold by all druggists.—Adv.

FOOTBALL SQUAD PLANS SECRET PRACTICE

Secret practice is planned for the High school football squad candidates over the week-end. It is admitted by Coach Liston today, but where the practice will be held is a secret which athletic authorities refuse to divulge.

Among members of the squad it was rumored this morning that 20 or 25 picked candidates were to be taken out of town by Coach Liston either Friday afternoon or Saturday morning and put through a strenuous practice session at which a number of "trick" plays would be taught the boys.

NERVOUS, RUN-DOWN MOTHERS

Worn Out Caring for Children and Housework—See how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps

Indianapolis, Indiana.—"I was in a very nervous and run-down condition while nursing my baby, and bearing some talk of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began taking it. From the second bottle I noticed a big improvement, and I am still taking it. I am not a bit nervous now, and feel like a different person. It is a great medicine for any one in a nervous, run-down condition and I would be glad to give any one advice about taking it. I think there is no better medicine and give you permission to publish this letter."—Mrs. ANNA SMITH, 541 W. Norwood St., Indianapolis, Indiana.

The important thing about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is that it does help women suffering from the ailments common to their sex. If you are nervous and run-down and have pains in your lower parts and in your back, remember that the Vegetable Compound has relieved other women having the same symptoms. Jack Daw's Adventures. Chapter 3

Flip, upon spying the cub tigers, started to bark. Immediately the little fellows perked up their ears, turned about and dashed off into the underbrush. Almost as soon as they were out of sight a loud roar shook the surrounding territory. Jack knew that a much bigger tiger was nearby.

Following the roar the little adventurer heard the crackling of twigs and out from behind a large pile of brush stalked the mother tiger. She stopped short when she saw Jack, Flip and the little pet monkey, Flip. Then she sat back on her haunches and opened her mouth wide, showing big white teeth.

Flip started to bark again but Jack grabbed him before he could charge down on the mother tiger. Then the tiger crouched down and Jack felt that she was about to leap at him. The tiger took one step forward and then Jack heard a loud click. The tiger had been caught in a trap. (Continued.)

"I'M NEVER, NEVER, NEVER GOING TO WEAR YOU AS LONG AS I LIVE," HE SAID TO THE SHOES.

"Well," said Mister Snip Snap to the Twins. "Did you find out what Cutie was? That was wearing out Cutie Colton's shoes so fast?"

"No, Mister Snip Snap," said Nick, "we didn't. We visited the school in the woods yesterday and all the scholars did was study spelling and arithmetic and reading and writing. They used their hands a lot, but their feet hardly any at all, and there wasn't anything that would make Cutie's shoes wear out so fast."

"I do declare!" said Mister Snip Snap "It is the greatest mystery I ever heard of. It's as bad as the fairy tale about the seven princesses who danced their shoes to pieces every night and nobody was able to find out where they went. Ha! I have an idea! I have a wonderful idea!"

"What?" cried the Twins just like that.

"Why, if Cutie Colton doesn't wear his shoes out in school he must be wearing them out some place else," said the fairymen.

"So he must," said Nancy.

"Of course," said Nick.

"That's just it!" cried Mister Snip Snap as pleased as Punch about being so smart. "The next thing is to find where it is and what it is that starting to chop wood for his mother's kitchen stove, he reached behind a log and pulled out his new shoes.

"I'm never, never, never going to wear you as long as I live!" he said to the shoes. "You nearly pinch my toes off after running in my bare feet all summer. Back you go!" And he stuck the shoes behind the log again, then he went on with his wood-chopping.

"Nancy and Nick laughed. Then they went back to Mister Snip Snap and told him all about it. "Cutie isn't wearing our shoes at all. He's got an old pair on," they said.

"Well, well, well!" said the Little Fairymen. "I'd rather Mrs. Cottontail went on thinking we sold her bad shoes than have Cutie suffer. We'll not say a word about it."

TO CONSTRUCT PROTOCOL WHICH
REALLY WILL MAKE FOR PEACE

Statesmen at Geneva Hope to Plug Up Every Hole in Covenant of League of Nations So That Nobody Can Crawl Out and Have Excuse to Start War

GENEVA, Sept. 18.—(By the Associated Press)—Plugging up every hole in the covenant of the League of Nations so that nobody can crawl out and have an excuse to start a war, is the picturesque phraseology now used in Geneva to describe the efforts of the statesmen and jurists to construct a protocol which really will make for peace.

Paragraph eight of Article 18 of the covenant declares that "If the dispute between the parties is claimed by one of them, and is found by the council, to arise out of a matter which by international law is solely within the domestic jurisdiction of that party, the council shall so report and shall make no recommendations as to its settlement."

Everybody regards this as negative and as leaving a hole in the covenant which must be plugged. Raoul Fernandez of Brazil, M. Politis of Greece and M. Loucheur of France have been charged with this plugging operation, and are beginning their study of the question.

The French idea is that, if the council is unanimous in declaring any dispute purely a domestic question, all the members of the league must accept its decision and engage solemnly not to make the issue involved a cause for war.

Although making no change in the position they held for the past week and although they are careful to reiterate that Great Britain intends to stand by the covenant and all its terms, the British delegation in the last 24 hours have given indications of a kind of shrinking up in attitude and a tendency to avoid comment on the progress of the assembly.

They seem to apprehend that any unlimited commitment of the services of the British fleet in the interest of maintaining peace would meet with disapproval at home.

There is a distinct feeling here that Great Britain does not wish to excite the apprehensions or misgivings of the American people as to what the British might do in connection with American commerce in the event of any conflict arising in Europe.

The French, however, continue to express satisfaction with the progress of the negotiations and seem assured that the protocol, with the backing of Great Britain and with the authorization of supplementary clauses, will surely afford those guarantees which they believe essential to the security of their country.

Feature of Agenda:

GENEVA, Sept. 18.—(By the Associated Press)—Replies from the various governments as to what they could do in the general constitution of action under sanctions to come into play against any state adjudged an aggressor are likely to form one of the chief features of the agenda of the proposed international conference on disarmament.

The article in the protocol drafted by Dr. Benes of Czechoslovakia concerning the application of penalties is general in its nature and many of the delegates think it will be necessary to obtain from each government some concrete outline of what it will offer, economically, financially or militarily.

In any emergency, it is argued such assistance would provide something definite for the disarmament conference to work upon and give a more rational basis for a possible agreement on the reduction of armaments.

The sub-commissions today concluded their detailed examination of the arbitration clauses in the proposed protocol and gave particular attention also to the examination of measures to be adopted while arbitration proceedings are going on between affected states. The goal is elimination of the dangers of conflicts breaking out while the arbitral machinery is being set in motion.

NINE INCHES SLICED OFF MAN'S "BAY WINDOW"

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 18.—(By the Associated Press)—Passage of legislation necessary to restore General Pershing to the active list—in order that his valuable counsel will be available to those responsible for the defense of the nation" was urged in a resolution adopted by the American Legion national convention today.

A recommendation for making defense test day an annual event, set for Sept. 12, was contained in the military affairs committee report adopted by the convention. Legionnaires were urged to "continue their splendid cooperation" to make the day successful.

The convention also adopted the report of the naval affairs committee which urged that "our battle fleet be placed immediately on an absolute parity with the strongest navy in the world in the matter of range and power of its guns."

Among states receiving trophies for exceeding their 1922 membership were: Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Florida, Virginia, New York, Pennsylvania, South Carolina and also the Canal Zone.

Florida heading the list, received the MacNider trophy presented by the Iowa department.

Greetings were read from the allied military committee of Versailles.

ice chest in the rear of his barn, which adjoins his house at Stevens street and Bell avenue, when the pair entered. It was quite dark and a light rain was falling. The entering pair were masked with handkerchiefs.

"Hold up your hands; we want that roll," said one of them, pointing a gun at the surprised milkman.

Peabody thought he recognized them as friendly milkmen and took it they were joshing him.

"Quit you're kidding," he countered.

"There's no kidding about this—fork over the roll," was the snarled reply from the gunman.

Hold-up Men Quitters

"Try and get it" said Peabody as he reached to pick up a milk bottle and rushed toward them.

With his words the gunman fired. Despite the bullet finding its mark, Peabody, a husky man of forty years, continued toward them with the milk bottle. The pair of gunmen turned and ran, Peabody chasing them across Stevens street and about one hundred yards down Victoria street. His cries of "You've killed me" woke up neighbors, many of whom immediately came to his aid. Douglas Kydd, neighboring milk dealer, reached the side of Peabody, then weak and staggering, and supported him as he walked back to the barn.

Police were notified and a car driven by Chasseur Charles Brown and containing Lieut. Freeman and Officers Sharkey, Nelson and O'Sullivan rushed to the scene. The police car took Peabody to the hospital while the police commenced to comb the neighborhood.

Officer W. E. J. Conway, patrolling a beat in the vicinity of the scene of the crime, furnished the first clue when he said he saw a light truck with two passengers of slight build in the neighborhood earlier in the morning. He furnished the number of the truck and it was found the plates were registered in the name of Sousa. Police took him in custody shortly thereafter. The truck was found abandoned some several streets away from the Peabody home.

Phone Operator Helps

arrived through the efforts of the phone operator made their way to the hospital where everything possible was done to make the suffering man comfortable.

Peabody, who never carried a gun and always had considerable cash in his possession, could give but little description of the men save that they were of slight build and appeared in the poor light to be young men.

Sousa is of slight build and while giving his age as 45 could easily pass off as twenty years younger. Sousa is in business for himself as a roofer and lives at 188 Lincoln street with his wife and five children. He had $1.28 in his pockets when arrested. He was finger-printed and photographed before being placed in a cell to await arraignment.

Nearby Home Entered

The finger-prints will be used in an endeavor to link up Sousa with the entry, shortly after midnight this morning, into the home of Robert C. Potter, manager of the Merrimack Square garage, who lives at 527 Stevens street, a few blocks from the Peabody home. When Mr. Potter returned home this morning from his garage he was drinking coffee in the kitchen with his wife when he heard sounds on the cellar stairway. Going to the cellar door he saw a masked man of slight build coming lightly up the stairs. Slamming the door and telling his wife to go upstairs Mr. Potter turned the key and went outside the house in hope of getting the watchman of a street construction job there to help him in cornering the intruder. In the interim the frightened burglar had made his way out through the window of the coal bin, which he had forced to gain entrance.

At the Corporation hospital this morning Dr. Archibald W. Gardner probed for and removed the bullet from Mr. Peabody. A strong, rugged man, every confidence was expressed that he would recover.

Arrest of Sousa

Sousa was arrested just before 9 o'clock at his home, 188 Lincoln street. He was shaving when officers entered the house and told them he had just got up. Brought outside the house in hope of getting the police station, he professed ignorance as to how his truck had been out of the garage all night and said it must have been stolen.

As he was being fingerprinted by Officer McCann the officer noticed the prisoner's hands were very dirty and streaked with what appeared to be coal dust. Thinking it strange a man who had supposedly just got up and completed his morning ablutions should be so dirty, he questioned Sousa who was unable to give a satisfactory explanation. This strengthened the belief of the officers that he is the man who was in the cellar of the Potter home and escaped through the window of the coal bin. Every effort is being made to connect him with both crimes.

Has Large Family

Peabody, the wounded milk dealer, is married and has four children, Albert, Melvin, Fred, Jr., and Phyllis. Fred, Jr., is an infant.

Melvin, a bright young lad of thirteen years, who had been helping his father during the summer vacation, and his mother during the winter, was at the hospital when he was admitted.

Mr. Potter is also known to carry large sums of money on his person at times and generally gets home at about midnight. He could not furnish a very good description of the visitor but provided finger-prints which may be of value.

Taken to Cambridge

Sousa was taken to East Cambridge shortly after 1 o'clock by Commitment Officers Cawley and McCann and committed to the house of correction.

The Sun is on sale in the North Station, Boston.

PRINCE OF WALES PLANS TOUR OF U. S. FACTORIES AND FARMS

To Return to This Country At a Later Date to Visit Industrial Centers and Farming Communities—Wants to Meet American Workers

SYOSSET, N. Y., Sept. 18.—(By the Associated Press)—The Prince of Wales is anxious, it was learned today, to return to the United States at a later date to visit the great industrial centers and farming communities, to become acquainted at first hand with industrial conditions, and to meet American workingmen and women. The prince has long meditated such a trip and the project has grown in his mind as a result of the numerous invitations he has received this summer from all parts of the North American continent, showing that a tour of industrial exploration would be as welcome to his American hosts as to him.

Although the Prince's present visit has been almost entirely a holiday one, it has been pointed out by those who have known him in England and in this country, that during his stay at Long Island he has made many interesting acquaintances and above all he has met his president and several cabinet members personally.

"One of his acquaintances has put it:

"Whatever he does he does with keenness and vigor, whether it be riding or dancing, as on this visit to Long Island, the main object of which was to encourage the British polo team in its efforts to win the cup, or whether it be on public functions in his own country, presiding at meetings of charitable institutions, such as King Edward's hospital fund, or attending to the affairs of London's largest hospitals, such as Guy's and St. Bartholomew's, with which he is closely connected.

The contemplated tour of factories and farms would be similar to the one he has made in the industrial cities of Great Britain since the war when he spent long periods going through workshops and talking with the people employed in them.
